The International Society for the Study of Narrative is an international association of scholars dedicated to the investigation of narrative, its elements, techniques, and forms; its relation to other modes of discourse; its power and influence in cultures past and present. Anyone with an interest in narrative studies is invited to join. Membership in the Society includes a subscription to NARRATIVE as well as to the Society's newsletters, which contain information about the Society's annual conference, its sessions at the MLA meetings, and other activities. To join the Society for 2020 visit the Ohio State Press website, www.ohiostatepress.org.
