Introduction

The Communications Act allows for the Codes of the legacy regulators to remain in force until such time as Ofcom has developed its own Codes. Ofcom has consulted on its new draft Code.

The new Code will be published this year.

The Codes and rules currently in force for broadcast content are:

- Advertising and Sponsorship Code (Radio Authority)
- News & Current Affairs Code and Programme Code (Radio Authority)
- Code on Standards (Broadcasting Standards Commission)
- Code on Fairness and Privacy (Broadcasting Standards Commission)
- Programme Code (Independent Television Commission)
- Programme Sponsorship Code (Independent Television Commission)
- Rules on the Amount and Scheduling of Advertising

From time to time adjudications relating to advertising content may appear in the bulletin in relation to the application of formal sanctions by Ofcom.

Copies of the full adjudications for Upheld and Not Upheld Fairness and Privacy cases can be found on the Ofcom website: www.ofcom.org.uk

Faking It E4, 5 December, 15:00

Introduction

This series follows ordinary members of the public as they attempt to master an entirely new skill within four weeks to a standard that will fool a group of expert judges. This particular programme featured a factory maintenance worker 'faking it' as a top fashion designer. In the course of the programme, the word "fuck" or its derivatives were heard on five occasions. One viewer complained about the swearing, given the scheduling of the programme.

Response

E4 said that as two versions of programmes are often produced, one for pre- and one for post-watershed viewing, the former are normally labelled 'all times' and the latter 'late night'. On this occasion, the tape intended for pre watershed broadcast had not been clearly labelled and, as a result, the person responsible for selecting programme tapes for transmission had misunderstood which version to use. The mistake was not picked up on transmission - had it been, an on-air apology could have been broadcast at the time. Channel 4 apologised for any offence caused by the strong language. The licensee said that it had revised its procedures to prevent any recurrence of the error.

Decision

We appreciate E4's admission of what went wrong and its assurances about its revised procedures. However, the swearing was not suitable for broadcast at that time of the afternoon and the original mistake was compounded by its not being noticed on transmission.

The programme was in breach of Section 1.5 (Bad Language) of the Programme Code

Street Crime UK

Bravo, 4 January, 12:30 and 15:30

Introduction

This series follows the work of police officers on patrol and their encounters with unruly members of the public. Two viewers complained about swearing ("fuck") which they thought was inappropriate before the watershed.

Response

Bravo said that all three series of Streetcrime UK had two versions, a post watershed version and a 'PG' Daytime version. Unfortunately, on this occasion the wrong version was transmitted. The channel was dismayed to learn of this, apologised for any offence caused, and had reminded staff of the importance of ensuring that this did not happen again.

Decision

We accept that this was a genuine mistake. However the programme, which contained strong swearwords, was transmitted twice in one afternoon. This should have been identified and prevented by the broadcaster's compliance procedures.

The programme was in breach of Section 1.5 (Bad Language) of the Programme Code

Goldie Lookin' Chain: 'Your mother's got a penis'

TMF, 28 November, 12:00

Introduction

TMF is a pop music channel owned by MTV Networks Europe. A viewer complained that this video was offensive to transsexual people and unsuitable for broadcast at a time when small children could be watching because of its sexual references and theme.

Response

MTV replied that it considered the video unsuitable for the 'after school' slot during the week (typically between 16:00 and 19:00). At weekends, the scheduling restriction was applied between 09:00 and 12:00, a time during which MTV believed a large number of children could be expected to be watching unsupervised by their parents. On this occasion, the video was broadcast just after 12:00 in accordance with its policy.

MTV considered that the video was suitable for broadcast at this time. It had been substantially edited, removing explicit references to "penis", swearing and obvious sexual references. Some mild sexual innuendos and imagery remained but MTV considered that the time restriction imposed was adequate.

The broadcaster said that neither the tone of the song or video was offensive to transsexuals. MTV considered that the tone was one of harmless schoolboy humour, and that the song did not make any serious comments about transsexuals. MTV believed that the vast majority of people would appreciate this and not be offended by the video.

Decision

We agree with MTV that the video's theme and lyrics are unsuitable for broadcast at a time when children are likely to be watching unsupervised. However we consider that this also includes weekend afternoons.

The video was in breach of Section 1.2 (Family viewing and the Watershed) of the Programme Code

Evening Kick-Off TalkSPORT, 1 November, 21:00

Introduction

A listener complained about the use of offensive language in this edition of Evening Kick-Off which featured analysis of a football match between Manchester City and Norwich City. During the discussion, one of the presenters commented on the performance of one of the Norwich City players, saying: "he looked like somebody with Downs".

The listener felt that the offence was compounded by the fact that no apology was broadcast.

Response

TalkSPORT acknowledged that the comment made by the presenter was insensitive and assured us that it had taken action to address this lapse. The broadcaster had discussed the matter with the producer of the programme. The producer would speak to the presenter (who was on leave) before he next went on air. The presenter would also be reminded of the need to adhere to the Programme Code.

Decision

We agree that the comment made by the presenter was inappropriate and offensive. Although not intended maliciously, particular care needs to be taken when using expressions that can be seen to refer to disabilities or learning difficulties. Although we welcome the action taken by the broadcaster, the lack of any immediate recognition that the comment was inappropriate compounded the offence.

The comment was in breach of Section 1.1 (General) of the Programme Code

Big Brother Panto

Channel 4, 27 December, 10:55

Introduction

The Big Brother Panto brought together ex-housemates from all of the previous five series of Big Brother. In this programme, which had previously been shown on E4 at 21:00, they were rehearsing a modern day adaptation of Cinderella.

36 viewers complained about swearing in the programme when it was repeated midmorning on Channel 4.

Response

Channel 4 accepted that this edition of the programme should not have been shown at that time of the morning. The post watershed version had been incorrectly broadcast instead of the intended edited version. When the problem became apparent to the transmission staff and the commissioning editor, an apology was made by the continuity announcer at the end of Part One. The correct edit of the tape was shown for the second part of the programme and the apology was repeated at the end. An apology was also posted on the Big Brother Panto website.

Decision

This error was particularly unfortunate as, during the Christmas holidays, a significant number of children were available to view. Although this administrative and technical error should have been detected before transmission, in view of the apologies given and action taken, we consider the matter resolved. However, in light of the modified procedures and assurances given, we wouldn't expect a similar recurrence.

The All New Pink Panther Show

Boomerang, 10 January, 16:30

Introduction

Boomerang is a children's cartoon channel owned by Turner Entertainment Networks International Limited. A viewer complained that the word "bloody" appeared in this cartoon which they considered inappropriate for a children's programme.

Response

Turner said that it appreciated that the word should not have appeared in a cartoon broadcast on Boomerang at that time of day. It discussed the matter with those responsible for pre-transmission clearance and had reinforced Turner's guidelines and procedures. Turner explained that the reason for the error was that from a US perspective (where the programme originated), "bloody" does not have the same connotations as it does in the UK. Turner had removed the episode from their play list and would ensure that it was edited prior to any re-transmission.

Decision

Section 1.5 of the Programme Code prohibits bad language in programmes specially designed for children. The swearword was clearly inappropriate in this programme. However, in view of Turner's acknowledgment of the error and subsequent action, we consider the matter resolved.

Heinz sponsorship: Emmerdale

ITV, various dates, 19:00

Introduction

This sponsorship credit featured a guinea pig in a cage with a bottle of tomato ketchup in place of its water bottle. The visual was accompanied by the tag line "You can't eat without it...". 17 viewers complained that the credit was irresponsible because it could lead to pet owners, particularly children, replacing their pet's water supply with ketchup.

Decision

The credit was clearly intended to be humorous. It was shown around Emmerdale, a drama that attracts a predominately adult audience and holds little appeal for the very young. We believe that pet owners watching the programme would be aware of the need to provide their pets with fresh drinking water and consider that the credit was unlikely to have encouraged viewers to emulate the action.

The sponsorship credit was not in breach of the Code
