

Publicis Sapient + Microsoft: Media Networks

Offering summary

As cookie-based ad targeting crumbles, brands across all industries are looking to monetize their customer data and digital real estate to attract advertisers and unlock new revenue streams.

Media Networks (MNs) present a golden opportunity for organizations with strong first-party data, publishing assets (or both) to elevate the customer experience, deepen partner relationships, and transform their valuable data into high-margin, non-linear media dollars.

Our end-to-end MN solution, combining advertising expertise, leading-edge Microsoft technologies, and proven implementation strategies, unlocks significant revenue gains through data monetization – upwards of a $100 million annual increase for an organization with $10 billion in revenue.

The emerging Media Network landscape

Advertisers are reaching a crisis point. Rising privacy concerns are causing internet browsers to phase out traditional data collection methods like cookies and device IDs, leaving advertisers in the dark. This 'signal loss' forces brands to find new ways to understand their customers and target them with effective ad campaigns.

Enter Media Networks (MNs) – a game-changer in the post-cookies advertiser landscape. MNs empower brands to share their valuable first-party data with advertisers to help them generate more ad sales and create engaging customer experiences (think personalized recommendations, relevant ads, and curated content).

From the customer's perspective, MNs present the right value proposition at the right time, fostering a greater sense of brand loyalty through uniquely tailored experiences.

MNs not only quickly recoup return on investment but can also deliver a lucrative stream of high-margin, non-linear media dollars. For example, a company with $10 billion in revenue can increase its annual profits by $100 million through MNs.

The secret to maximizing MNs' potential lies in unifying customer data across all touchpoints and establishing deterministic closed-loop measurements that precisely track the journey from marketing actions (clicks, impressions, etc) to confirmed customer conversions.

Partnering with the right media buying and marketing technology experts empowers you to achieve this.

Our roadmap to rapid, recurring growth through MNs

Publicis Sapient, with our deep expertise in media and digital transformation, offers comprehensive MN solutions – from strategy and design to implementation and ongoing support. Modernize and future-proof your data stack with Microsoft Cleanrooms, Customer Data Platforms (CDPs), and Identity solutions. We help you Integrate these tools into your MN platform to reveal richer customer insights and deliver a more personalized customer experience.

How we've made an impact

Major US Grocer

The imperative for change:

A leading US grocer, sitting on a wealth of first-party data from its many banner ads, recognized the decline of cookies and the rapid growth of CPG digital ad spending. They knew they had to act fast to get into the media network space and generate a healthy stream of non-linear media profits to help them manage fluctuating overhead costs and gain a competitive edge.

The transformative solution:

We designed and built a custom omnichannel MN that mapped each customer's journey from ad impressions to sales capture. Our innovative solution closed the loop on reporting and delivered actionable, real-time insights with unparalleled transparency and efficiency. We also leveraged the expertise of our sister agency, Publicis Media, to uncover unique perspectives on CPG advertiser needs and helped the grocer get up and running their new platform quickly.

The business impact:

The custom MN platform quickly yielded significant results. Notably, the expanded network of media partners and nuanced insights enabled the grocer to completely revamp its revenue model. The company now has a solid foundation to spur future data monetization efforts through a scalable platform that delivers real-time data on customer preferences and effortlessly adapts as regulations evolve.
