

RESTORING ISLAND RESILIENCE EVENT

PRISMSS Restoring Island Resilience Event
Celebrating Pacific success toward scaling up the management of invasive species – a journey to restoring island resilience through PRISMSS

A night of fun, entertainment, dinner and drinks.

7th September (19:00-21:00)
Robert Louis Stevenson Museum, Apia

Please RSVP at: prismssevent@sprep.org

- Celebrating the next phase of SPREP's Pacific Regional Invasive Species Management Support Service (PRISMSS)
- Showcase of recent successes in the management of invasive species in countries such as Niue, RMI, Palau and Tonga.
- Launching plans for a Netflix series titled "Saving Oceania" showing how Pacific Island nations are scaling up national efforts to manage invasive species as a key approach for increasing climate resilience.
- An opportunity for Ministers, donors, and development partners to discuss regional plans to lead the world in managing invasive species to restore the resilience of island ecosystems and communities.

