National Coalition of Anti-Violence Programs (NCAVP). (2018). A Crisis of Hate: A Report on Homicides Against Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender People: Emily Waters, Larissa Pham, Chelsea Convery

MISSION

The National Coalition of Anti-Violence Programs (NCAVP) works to prevent, respond to, and end all forms of violence against and within lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer (LGBTQ) and HIV-affected communities.

NCAVP is a national coalition of local member programs and affiliate organizations who create systemic and social change. We strive to increase power, safety, and resources through data analysis, policy advocacy, education, and technical assistance.

INTRODUCTION

Since 1996, the National Coalition of Anti-Violence Programs (NCAVP) has released national research reports on the various ways that lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBTQ) and HIV-affected communities experience hate violence. Within these reports, NCAVP shares information about anti-LGBTQ homicides for the previous year. However, in just August of 2017, NCAVP recorded the highest number of anti-LGBTQ homicides in our 20-year history of tracking this information, and decided to release a mid year report to raise awareness of this striking increase. Since the release of the Crisis of Hate report in August of 2017, the number of reported homicides continued to increase, reaching a total of 52 reported anti-LGBTQ homicides in all of 2017.

We are releasing this report during a time when our communities are witnessing the few civil rights protections and policies being rolled back and discrimination being instituted into law; when media organizations and organizations working with survivors are receiving an unprecedented number of stories of hate fueled attacks.

While much of this violence is not new, but rather amplified, this past year has sparked a national conversation about the escalation of hate violence against so many marginalized communities. NCAVP hopes that sharing this information now will encourage people to reject anti-LGBTQ bias whenever it occurs, and to resist any hateful rhetoric or policies put forward by this administration or by legislators.

For too long, legislators have not taken meaningful or effective steps to address the increase of hate violence in this country. We ask that people call their representatives and ask them what they will do right now to proactively address hate violence and ensure that their communities are safe and affirming for LGBTQ people.

The time for addressing this crisis of violence is now.

KEY FINDINGS OF ANTI-LGBTQ HOMICIDES IN 2017

In 2017, NCAVP recorded reports of 52 hate violence related homicides of LGBTQ people, the highest number ever recorded by NCAVP. This number represents an 86% increase in single incident reports from 2016.

In 2017, there was the equivalent of one homicide of an LGBTQ person in the U.S. each week.

ANTI-LGBTQ HOMICIDES SINCE 2012

Number of Individual Reports of Anti-LGBTQ Homicides NCAVP

*In 2016, the total number of reports of anti-LGBTQ homicides was 77, including the 49 lives taken during the shooting at Pulse Nightclub in Orlando, Florida. The second highest number of reports of individual homicides was 30 in 2011.

KEY FINDINGS OF ANTI-LGBTQ HOMICIDES IN 2017, CONTINUED

- The victims of these hate violence related homicides have overwhelmingly been transgender women and queer, bi, or gay cisgender men.
- There was a significant increase of reports of homicides of queer, bi, or gay cisgender men, from 4 reports in 2016 to 20 reports in 2017.
- For the last five years, NCAVP has documented a consistent and steadily rising number of reports of homicides of transgender women of color, which continued into 2017.
- In 2017, NCAVP collected information on 27 hate-violence related homicides of transgender and gender non-conforming people this year, compared to 19 reports for 2016.
- 22 of these homicides were of transgender women of color.
- Of the total number of homicides in 2017, 71% (n=37) of the victims were people of color: 31 (60%) of the victims were Black, 4 (8%) were Latinx, 2 (4%) were Asian, and 1 (2%) was Native. Additionally, 12 (23%) of the victims were white and 2 victims' racial and ethnic identity is unknown to NCAVP at this time.
- 67% (n=35) of the victims were age 35 and under.
- Guns were used in 59% (n=28) of the total number of homicides thus far in 2017, including three people who were shot and killed by police.
- Over half of the homicides occurred in just five states. New York and Texas had the most anti-LGBTQ homicides, with 7 victims in Texas and 6 victims in New York. Georgia had 5 victims of anti-LGBTQ homicides, and Louisiana and Florida both had 4 victims of anti-LGBTQ homicides.

2017 HATE VIOLENCE HOMICIDES

NCAVP collected information on 52 anti-LGBTQ homicides in 2017. This is a 86% increase compared to the total number of individual reports of anti- LGBTQ homicides in all of 2016.

Of the total number of homicides in 2017, 71% of the victims were people of color: 31 (60%) of the victims were Black, 4 (8%) were Latinx, 2 (4%) were Asian, and 1 (2%) was Native. Twelve (23%) of the victims were white and two victims' racial identity is unknown to NCAVP at this time.

RACE AND ETHNICITY OF VICTIMS OF ANTI-LGBTQ HOMICIDES

Race and Ethnicity of Victims n=52

NCAVP

Over the last five years, NCAVP has reported a consistent if not steady rise of reports of homicides of transgender and gender non-conforming people. In 2017, NCAVP collected information on a total of 27 hate-violence related homicides of transgender and gender non-conforming people, compared to 19 reports in 2016. Twenty-four victims in 2017 were transgender women or transfeminine people: 19 Black transgender women, 2 Latinx transgender women, 1 Native Two Spirit transgender woman, 1 white person who identified as femandrogynous, and 1 white transfeminine person.

In addition to this trend, there has been a significant increase in reports of anti-LGBTQ homicides of queer, bi, and gay cisgender men this year. NCAVP recorded 20 anti-LGBTQ homicides of cisgender men, compared to just 4 reports in all of 2016. Of the victims who were queer, bi, or gay cisgender men, 55% were men of color. The majority of the victims who were cisgender men of color were between the ages of 19 to 35 (82%), while nearly all cisgender men who were white were between the ages of 46 to 67 (86%).

GENDER IDENTITY OF VICTIMS OF ANTI-LGBTQ HOMICIDES

Gender Identity of Victims n=52

NCAVP

In 2017, 45% of the homicides of queer, bi, or gay cisgender men were related to hook-up violence, and most of these were related to hooking up online or through personal ads. There appears to be a trend of targeting queer, bi, or gay cisgender men for violence, robbery and homicides, and other cisgender men are using these sites to identify and harm them. Furthermore, there are ways that stigma, shame, and societal pressure may be contributing factors in hook up homicides where both individuals are queer, bi, or gay men.

NCAVP was able to collect information on victims' relationship to their alleged offender in 34 of the 52 total reports in 2017. Of the 34 homicides where information was available, 32% of the homicides were related to hook-up violence, 32% of the victims knew their offender and was non-hook up related, 26% were strangers and non-hook up related, and 10% were related to police violence. Of the 15 homicides of transgender and gender non-conforming people where information on alleged offenders was available, 5 knew the alleged offender, 6 was a stranger and non-hook up, 3 were police shootings and 1 was a stranger related to hook up situation. Guns were used in 59% of the total number of homicides where information about cause of death is known (n=47) thus far in 2017, including three shootings by police.

NARRATIVES OF LIVES TAKEN BY HATE VIOLENCE IN 2017

We mourn those we have lost to violence, and hold their lives in our memory as we continue to work to end violence in our lives and in our communities. We mourn the lives that our communities have lost in 2017 and before, and send love and light to their friends and family. Below are the names and stories of the lives we have lost to fatal, anti-LGBTQ violence this year so far.

We write down these narratives to lift up the memory and experiences of those we have lost. However, we know it can be hard to read these reports of violence against our communities. If you need support in these difficult times, you can always reach out to your local NCAVP member.

Mesha Caldwell, 41, Black transgender woman
Canton, MS

Mesha Caldwell was killed and her body was found along a rural roadside in Canton, Mississippi on January 4th, 2017. According to media reports, she was initially misgendered by local press. A family friend spoke lovingly of Mesha, and said she was a beautician and hairstylist. In the wake of her death, friends, family and loved ones flooded social media with messages of love for Mesha.

Jamie Lee Wounded Arrow, 28, Native transgender/Two Spirit woman
Sioux Falls, SD

Jamie Lee Wounded Arrow was found dead in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, on January 6th, 2017. Jamie identified as Two Spirit, a Native American/First Nations term that has historically encompassed many mixed-gender roles; she also identified as a transgender woman. Following her death, friends and family expressed their love for Jamie online, describing her as, “originally from the Pine Ridge Indian reservation and a proud Oglala Lakota trans woman” and concluding, “our hearts are broken as we will miss her very much.”

Sean Ryan Hake, 23, White transgender man
Sharon, PA

Sean Ryan Hake was fatally shot by police responding to a call about a domestic incident at Hake’s home on January 6th, 2017. Hake, who according to the family’s lawyer had had a history of emotional and mental health issues, had threatened his mother and also threatened to self-inflict violence. Officers responded with deadly force, which Hake’s family has said they do not believe was warranted. A friend remembered Sean as a caring person, saying: “He had a genuinely good heart and he had struggled with his problems. But he always made sure that he was there for other people.”

Savyon Zabar, 54, cisgender man
New York, NY

Savyon Zabar was found strangled in his Upper West Side New York apartment on January 4th, 2017. An individual working as a massage therapist has been arrested and charged in connection with his death. According to media reports, Zabar was openly gay, was the former owner of the popular LGBTQ Latinx nightclub Escuelita, and was a well-known and liked figure in the LGBTQ club scene. Fernando Munizaga, a former employee of Zabar’s told the media: “He was a huge figure in the gay community. He gave us a voice. He gave us opportunity. He gave a platform to the gay Latin community.”

Bill Denham, 53, White cisgender man

Tampa, FL

Bill Denham was beaten to death on January 14th, 2017 while he was out taking a walk in Tampa, Florida, where he lived. Dontae Lampkins, 25, Black cisgender man

Tampa, FL

Dontae Lampkins was found dead in an alley in Tampa, Florida on January 26th, 2017. According to media reports, friends and family believe that his death was hate-motivated, and that he was murdered by someone who he met using a dating app. Lampkins' sister spoke lovingly of him as a "proud gay man," and remembered him, saying "He was him. He was himself. He was outspoken. His sexuality meant everything to him. It's either 'be who you are or don't be no one at all.'"

JoJo Striker, 23, Black transgender woman

Toledo, OH

JoJo Striker was killed in Toledo, Ohio on February 8th, 2017. Initial media reports misgendered JoJo, but transgender activists and allies spoke out in support of JoJo as the news of her death has emerged, helping to correct her narrative. JoJo's mother spoke to press saying she believed her daughter's death was motivated by hate.

Jaquarrius Holland, 18, Black transgender woman

Monroe, LA

Jaquarrius Holland was killed in Monroe, Louisiana on February 19th, 2017, but her homicide came to light weeks later, due to local press misgendering her. According to media reports, Jacquarrius was shot during a verbal altercation with someone who then fled the scene. Friends shared memories and stories about Jacquarrius online, many using the hashtag #PrettyBrown, which she used to refer to herself.

Keke Collier / Tiara Richmond, 24, Black transgender woman

Chicago, IL

Keke Collier, also known to friends as Tiara Richmond, was killed in Chicago, Illinois on February 22nd, 2017. She was shot to death while walking near her home. New Orleans, LA

Chyna Gibson, also known by her performing name, Chyna Doll Dupree, was killed in New Orleans, Louisiana on February 25th, 2017. According to media reports, Chyna, a New Orleans native, was visiting for Mardi Gras and to see her family when she was shot and killed outside of a shopping center. Chyna was a well known and loved performer who toured the country. Following her death, there was an outpouring of support and memories of Chyna online. One friend said of Chyna: "My heart breaks as this community must find a way to honor you in death and begin to move forward. The stage will never be the same!"

Glenser Soliman, 44, Asian cisgender man
Harris, TX

Glenser Soliman was found dead on February 25th, 2017. According to media reports, it is believed that Soliman was lured to his death while using a dating or hook-up app. Two cousins, Brandon Alexander Lyons and Jerrett Jamal Allen, were identified as suspects and may be responsible for more deaths targeting gay men. Soliman was a nurse, and his colleagues at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston spoke out, expressing sadness at his death.

Ciara McElveen, 25, Black transgender woman
New Orleans, LA

Ciara McElveen was killed in New Orleans, Louisiana on February 27th, 2017. According to media reports, Ciara was found stabbed to death in the 7th Ward. Local media reports originally misgendered Ciara, but local advocates and those who knew Ciara worked to correct press accounts.

Alphonza Watson, 38, Black transgender woman
Baltimore, MD

Alphonza Watson was killed in Baltimore, Maryland on March 22nd, 2017. According to media reports, she was shot to death in the early morning hours and two men were witnessed fleeing the scene. Alphonza's mother, Peggy Watson, called her the "the sunshine of our family" and talked about her daughter's love of cooking and gardening. "She was a very caring, passionate, fun person to be around, always in a talkative and playful mood," her mother remembered.

Andrew Nesbitt, 46, White cisgender man
Madison, WI

Andrew Nesbitt was found stabbed to death in his apartment in Madison, Wisconsin on March 27th, 2017. After celebrating his 46th birthday, Drew was followed back to his apartment by the man would later be charged for his murder. In the fall of 2017, the person who took Drew's life was found guilty of first degree intentional homicide and sentenced to life in prison. Drew was a survivor of a previous incident of hate violence 6 years before his tragic death. At that time, he worked closely with an anti-violence advocate who now works for Diverse & Resilient in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a member program of NCAVP. Drew continued to work with this advocate at Diverse & Resilient because he hoped his story would help other survivors know they were not alone. "Drew was full of laughter and love, and he lived his life authentically. As a survivor, he became an LGBTQ advocate and he was an inspiration to all who knew him," said Kathy Flores, LGBTQ Statewide Anti-Violence Manager for Diverse & Resilient.

Brandi Seals, 26, Black transgender woman
Houston, Texas

Brandi Seals was fatally shot on December 13th, 2017 in Houston, Texas. Police are investigating her death as a homicide, though the investigation is still in its early stages. Early media reports misgendered and mis-named Brandi, and she was correctly identified by local activist Atlantis Narcisse, founder of Save our Sisters, a local group for Black transgender women. Brandi was remembered by her aunt as a "loving, beautiful person."

Shanta Myers, 36, Black cisgender woman
Brandi Mells, 22, Black cisgender woman
Troy, New York

Shanta Myers and her two children, as well as her partner, Brandi Mells, were killed on December 26th, 2017, a brutal homicide that shook the LGBTQ community. Mells, Myers and her children Jeremiah (11) and Shanise (5) were bound before being killed. Isaiah Myers, 15, Shanta's oldest son, was out of town at the time and is the only surviving member of the family. Two people have been charged in this case, and there is some evidence that one of the suspects knew either Shanta or Brandi. The Myers-Mells family were remembered by many as loving, sweet, and good-natured.

Kerrice Lewis, 23, Black cisgender woman
Washington, D.C.

Kerrice Lewis was killed in Washington, D.C. on December 28th, 2017 after being shot and locked in the trunk of a car, which was then set on fire. Though police and medics were called, Lewis died at the scene. Later media reports indicate that her death may have been connected to others in the D.C. area. Kerrice was remembered by her grandfather as a “free spirit” who was “full of life” and that she would “light up a room, just talking and laughing.” Her best friend also spoke at length about Kerrice’s loving and caring nature.

HOW NCAVP COLLECTED THIS INFORMATION

All homicides listed here were included in this report because there is information that indicates a strong likelihood that the motivations behind the violence were either primarily or partially related to anti-LGBTQ bias. NCAVP has provided all demographic information that has been shared either through media reports, police reports, or through our member programs.

However, this information is not exhaustive. NCAVP knows that the number of homicides is likely higher as some homicides of LGBTQ and HIV-affected people are not documented because of misidentification of victims' sexual orientation or gender identity in media and other reports. Additionally, motives related to anti-LGBTQ bias can be difficult to discern as media and law enforcement are often reluctant to say that a homicide is related to bias. This lack of information on identities and motivations makes it difficult to track hate violence homicides and to know exactly how many anti-LGBTQ homicides occur each year.

It is often difficult to assert victims' racial, ethnic, gender identity, or sexual orientation given the difficulty of finding accurate information in the media and other reports. NCAVP is cautious not to report information on identities that has not been confirmed so as not to misidentify victims.
