A Day to Remember

More than 50 years ago, a mom-and-daughter duo ventured into the city. It was just the two of them, a “grown-up” experience perfect for memory-making. They lunched at a fancy restaurant, enjoying a surprising, yet delicious, addition: warm cinnamon rolls.

Afterward, they strolled to a concert hall, admiring its pale-blue ceiling with gold accents, just like the gilded instruments held by the tuxedoed musicians. As the lights dimmed, they were mesmerized by the beautiful music played by the orchestra.

Following the concert, they window-shopped, taking in the treasures within the various shops and specialty boutiques. Hand in hand they strolled, exchanging their secret code—three squeezes from the mom meant, “I love you.” Four squeezes from her daughter echoed, “I love you too.”

That young girl was Pleasant T. Rowland, the visionary founder of American Girl. Her cherished memory of that day was the inspiration behind our first store. Even now, each experience within an American Girl store is crafted with girls—and memory-making—in mind.

So, take a Treat Seat® and dine with your doll. Indulge in fancy food and engage in friendly conversation. We’re delighted that you’ve joined us to carry on the tradition of making today an experience you’ll remember forever.
