Do I have to use this form?

No, you do not have to use form CNG to change your name. Instead, you can send your evidence, as mentioned in panel 2, along with a completed application form AP1. We recommend using form CNG, however, to ensure your application is dealt with confidentially and only by the correct people.

How to complete the form

You must complete all panels of form CNG.

Read each panel carefully and refer to the notes on the left-hand side of the form.

You must provide at least one item of evidence listed in panel 2. In some cases, you will need to provide more than one item of evidence, as set out in this panel.

Use black ink and block capitals to complete any parts of the form that are not typed.

Why your evidence is needed

For any application to change the name of a registered owner in the register of title, we must be satisfied that the individual applying for the change of name is the individual named in the register. We, therefore, require evidence which provides a link between the current name in the register and the name to be recorded in the register. We apply this requirement and consideration across all change of name applications.

How we process your application

A specially trained and experienced team will receive your application. We will treat your information in confidence and it will only be seen by the individual(s) who process(es) the application.

To guard against fraud, we must sometimes send notification of your change of name to your registered address and in the name currently appearing in the register. We will only do this when necessary. This might be when the form of evidence is widely obtainable, such as a change of name deed (deed poll).

What happens to your information?

We will file your form and accompanying evidence with the highest access level. This means they will not be open to public inspection and copies of these documents will not be available for order.

HM Land Registry complies with the requirements of UK Data Protection legislation, under which it may retain and share information with:

- other government departments; and/or
- law enforcement and regulatory bodies including specified anti-fraud organisations under section 68 of the Serious Crime Act 2007.

This helps to prevent and detect crime such as registration or property fraud and to investigate land banking schemes.

For further information, please see our Personal Information Charter.

What about my previous name?

Your previous name will still appear in earlier editions of the register before you changed your name. Previous names cannot be removed from, or changed in, earlier editions of the register. Your previous name might also appear in an entry in the current edition of the register where you are a party to a deed; this cannot be changed either.

Documents filed with HM Land Registry are subject to a statutory right of inspection and your previous name will remain in any documents that were filed before you changed your name. Previous names cannot be removed from, or changed in, documents that were filed before you changed your name in the register as a result of this application.

However, under rule 133 of the Land Registration Rules 2003 (as amended), form CNG, and any accompanying supporting evidence, is automatically excepted from the public right of inspection.

Warning

If you dishonestly enter information or make a statement that you know is, or might be, untrue or misleading, and intend by doing so to make a gain for yourself or another person, or to cause loss or the risk of loss to another person, you may commit the offence of fraud under section 1 of the Fraud Act 2006. The maximum penalty for which is 10 years' imprisonment or an unlimited fine, or both.
