THE ESTEY COMPANY.

THE Estey Organ & Piano Co. are not behind in the matter of artistic complimentary calenders. They have sent us one of great excellence, illustrated by beautiful views of their organ factory at Brattleboro, Vt., and their piano factory at Southern Boulevard and Lincoln avenue, New York City.

This firm maintain the enormous trade in their celebrated organs which has flowed in upon them for decades past. All of the numerous styles are in immense demand. Watchful eyes are ever on the alert for improvements in tone, construction, and style. No detail of manufacture is too small to be submitted to tests at the hands of skilled experts and inspectors. The Estey Grand Salon Organ, both musically and architecturally, is a marvel. In design it is rich, stately, and chaste beyond description; in point of tone it merits and has received the warmest approbation of artists of experience and high standing. No manner of assembly in which good citizens gather together could be mentioned for which an Estey organ of one kind or another would not be appropriate. Forty years' experience in the field of organ building has enabled this great house to supply the needs of all sorts and conditions of organ lovers, whether in the home, the school, the lodge, the church, the palace, the cottage, or the forum.

The Estey piano, too, is proving itself to be worthy of the name it bears. This fine instrument is admired wherever it goes. It is made with that thoroughness and accuracy, that "eye to the future," which are inseparably associated with the name of Estey, and is already ranked, by many, as a piano of the first order, both in wealth and purity of tone and as a charming object of vision.

Merciful Heaven! what rogues these stencilers are!
And how my soul doth shudder at their deeds!
Ready am I with them to be at war;
Cursed be the sheet that caters to their needs!

FLOERSHEIM (To Marc).

O. K.; I wish thee luck in this campaign;
Turn out the frauds; feather and tar them o'er;
Toss them to h—ll, but carefully refrain,
O ld man, from tales of Marc in Baltimore,
