Plainedge is not a political entity except to the extent that it is the name given to an area comprising the Plainedge School District. It consists of parts of unincorporated areas of North Massapequa, Bethpage, Seaford and Farmingdale all within the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York.

Bounded on the south by Massapequa, on the east by Farmingdale on the west by Levittown and Island Trees, and on the north by Bethpage, Plainedge is approximately three square miles. It contains a total of 1,836 acres, 58% of which is residential and has a population of 24,320, with an average median family income of $13,870.

Plainedge is covered by U.S. Census tracts #5202 (pt.), 5203 (pt.), 5207 (pt.), 5208 (pt.), 5209, 5210 (pt.), 5211 (pt.) Only one tract (5209) is entirely within the school district; the others cross into other school districts. The Nassau-Suffolk Regional Planning Board has apportioned these tracts, allocating estimates of population to the appropriate districts.

1) HISTORY OF PLAINEDGE

The name 'Plainedge' is of English origin and is descriptive of the geographic region it included. The first Plainedge School District of about 150 years ago was the huge 'edge of the plain' that stretched from Massapequa to Westbury. With the gradual break-up into smaller districts, the name 'Plainedge' remained attached to its present locality.

All the land in the northern section of the district, north of Boundary Avenue and between Hicksville Road and Cedar Drive was purchased by Thomas Powell in 1688 and 1699. Land to the south of Boundary Avenue was obtained by William Frost in April, 1694. In 1690, the area west of Hicksville Road, the West Neck Purchase was secured for 18 joint purchasers who divided it among themselves. By 1800, the land had been broken up into smaller parcels that were farmed principally for hay. Later several thousand head of cattle roamed the "Plains." By the middle of the century poultry raising became an important industry with immense flocks of turkeys covering the fields.

After the Civil War, cabbages for sauerkraut and cucumbers for pickles were important crops but had to be abandoned because of soil blight. Then potato farming flourished until an invasion of golden nematodes brought about prohibitive restrictions by the State Department of Agriculture in 1945. Between 1950 and 1960 the spread of housing developments in the area changed the character of Plainedge to about what it is today.

2) THE SCHOOL DISTRICT

In 1814 Oyster Bay and Hempstead townships were divided into school districts. The 'fifteenth Plainedge District' extended northward from the "Brush plains" (near Jerusalem Avenue) to a line along Old Country Road (Hicksville-Plainview) and lay in the two townships. This original district included all of present-day Plainedge School District, and present day Bethpage School District, Island Trees School District (Town of Hempstead), and the southern part of Hicksville School District. In 1858, the first major change removed the Hicksville part of the district and most of Bethpage, leaving only the portion south of the railroad tracks. In 1910, the residents of the area between the Long Island R.R. and the A.T. Stewart line (along the Old Motor Parkway) petitioned to join the Central Park School District (Bethpage District #21). At that time, the Island Trees section declared itself independent and the western boundary of Plainedge was established at the town line.

The existing public school plant facilities consists of 5 elementary schools (Northedge, John H. West, Eastplain, Schwarting and Picken); two junior high schools (Sylvia Packard and Southedge); and the Plainedge High School.

Public school enrollment totaled 5,833 on the opening day of school, September 6, 1974. Enrollment is expected to decline to approximately 5200[±] by 1977/78. As a result of this decline, one elementary school facility, Baldwin Drive, has been leased to the Board of Cooperative Services which operates a satellite center for approximately 150 learning disabled children bused from various areas of Nassau County. This school-age population decline is consistent with trends in most other Nassau County communities.

The 1974/75 school budget is $14,321,595 of which $6,740,933 is raised through taxation, and $7,580,662 through state aid and other receipts. 62.4% of the budget is allocated for salaries, 7.8% for bonded indebtedness, 3.3% for transportation, 10% for operation and maintenance of plant, and 16.5% for miscellaneous expenses. The tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation is $16.44.

On October 22, 1966 a referendum by district voters approved a bond issue of $656,500 for the purchase of land and the construction and equipping of the present building which was opened to the public on September 9, 1968. This 19,800 square foot facility which is located on a 1.2 acre plot on Hicksville Road, a main north-south highway, seats 110 readers, has a meeting-room capacity of 110, and a book-storage capacity of 100,000+ volumes.

A variety of implements such as a rototiller, calculators, cassette players, sewing machines, etc. are also available for borrowing.

As of June 30, 1974 there were 20,559 registered borrowers: 15,765 adults and 4,794 children. Each month 90-120 new borrowers register for library cards. Circulation for the year 1973 was 241,065. Of the 53 libraries in the Nassau Library System, Plainedge ranks 22nd in population, 10th in books loaned per capita, and 12th in per capita expenditures for library materials.

There is virtually no industrial and very little nonresidential development (except Hempstead Turnpike and small portions of Jerusalem Avenue and Hicksville Road) to help support the school tax base, with the result that the school tax rate is one of the highest in the Town. Moreover, the potential for further development is so minimal that there is little prospect that a substantial reduction in the school tax rate can be anticipated. Town and County tax rates can be considered moderate.

10) TRANSPORTATION, UTILITIES AND OTHER SERVICES

Rail transportation is provided by the Long Island Rail Road (Metropolitan Transportation Authority) with nearby stations at Massapequa and Bethpage. There are no rail spurs in the Community. A parking permit for the stations may be obtained at the TOBAY Town Clerk for a $1.00 fee.

The latter connects with the Long Island Expressway and the Northern State Parkway. Access to the community on Southern State Parkway is at Exit 29 (Hicksville Road), and on the Seaford-Oyster Bay Expressway at Hicksville Road (Route 107), and Boundary Avenue.

Since June 1973, the Metropolitan Suburban Bus Authority (a subsidiary of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority) has been providing a single, coordinated bus system for the entire County.
