Edward VIII abdicates

After ruling for less than one year, Edward VIII becomes the first English monarch to voluntarily abdicate the throne. He chose to abdicate after the British government, public, and the Church of England condemned his decision to marry the American divorcée Wallis Warfield Simpson. On the evening of December 11, he gave a radio address in which he explained, "I have found it impossible to carry on the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge the duties of king, as I would wish to do, without the help and support of the woman I love." On December 12, his younger brother, the duke of York, was proclaimed King George VI.

Today in History

1901 December 10

First Nobel Prizes awarded

The first Nobel Prizes are awarded in Stockholm, Sweden, in the fields of physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and peace. The ceremony came on the fifth anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite and other high explosives. In his will, Nobel directed that the bulk of his vast fortune be placed in a fund in which the interest would be "annually distributed in the form of prizes to those who, during the preceding year, shall have conferred the greatest benefit on mankind." Although Nobel offered no public reason for his creation of the prizes, it is widely believed that he did so out of moral regret over the increasingly lethal uses of his inventions in war.

Good morning!

I hope you are doing as well as possible in this crazy year! Is there any way we could get an interview with the AG or someone else in the office today? We'd like to talk about the FB lawsuit. I'm interested in the reasons why SC did not join. We'd also like to ask about the brief where SC did support the Texas suit regarding the election. Zoom would be fine, but if we need to set it up for tomorrow or next week and come up there, we can do that, too.

Thanks in advance!

Hi Alan,

Thanks for the nice note, and I hope you all had a nice Thanksgiving. No need to apologize. I think last week's holiday has gotten us all a bit behind, especially me. Way too much tryptophan. ;-)

Thanks again to you, to Jeff, and the other red state attorneys general for continuing to study this important issue. If Mike Farris has been briefing y'all, you've got a whole lot smarter lawyer than me to provide info. So that's good news.

Meanwhile, I'm in touch every day with the gentlemen who drafted this complaint, and if you have any additional specific questions or concerns, I'm happy to do my best to get you a quick answer.

Switching gears, I wanted to share something with you that you might find interesting.

From today's presentation in Georgia, we see video evidence of apparent criminal activity in the election process in Georgia on Election Night from 11 PM to 1 AM after election observers and media had been sent home on the promise that counting had stopped. Suitcases full of ballots magically appearing from under tables at the State Farm Arena in Atlanta. No observers, no-chain-of-custody, no explanation. Unobserved workers just scan ballots into counting machines as fast as they can for two hours with nobody there. I'll be curious to see how long the democrat media will continue the "no evidence" crap. I guess these people are so dumb they figured nobody would look at the footage. This cannot stand. Every one of these illegal votes disenfranchises a legal voter in South Carolina. Copying Jeff and Congressman Norman if they'd like to have a look too.

Thanks for all you're doing for us, and have a great evening,

Don

Good evening Gentlemen"

Hope you' and your families have had a great Thanksgiving.

Chief Justice Mark Martin called tonight, and indicated that his group is about to send over a much-improved analysis addressing the issues and concerns that y'all raised when we spoke earlier in the week.

Mike Farris, who is the President and CEO of the Alliance Defending Freedom (formerly Alliance Defense Fund) will be sending over reports, perhaps as early as this evening. This evidence will be above and beyond the analysis that Mr. Braynard has been working on, and the CJ tells me it will be more difficult for the opposition to punch holes in the evidentiary conclusions which will be included in the report. It's my understanding that the analysis will address both factual and legal issues. I'm told that the study was authorized a few weeks back at "the highest levels," although I didn't ask the CJ what he meant by that. I took that to mean that study was commissioned and authorized by the White House, but he did not say that specifically.

Chief Justice Martin indicated that if it were possible, he and Mike would be pleased to have a phone conference with the two of you to discuss the findings.

My apologies for intruding into your holiday weekend, but I'm afraid the stakes here may be higher than any of us could have ever envisioned.

Thank you so much Alan.

I really appreciate it.

I could flood you with so much stuff on all this it would blow your mind. We have captured, for example, multiple, vitriolic anti-Trump facebook posts by this "Dr.Eric. Coomer,"who was in charge of security at Dominion, and who actually holds patents to many of their most recent election software. Some of the most vitriolic, foul-language posts about Trump you can imagine, going back from 2016 right up to the 2020 election. The guy has posted pro-Antifa stuff, anti-American stuff, ..."Eff the police".. the whole bit. Just a sick individual really...A radical PHD from Berkley who hates the country - overseeing Dominion "security." Talk about giving the fox the keys to the henhouse. .

If I were to send you his FB posts, your blood would boil. And we're supposed to have confidence in this foreign "Dominion" system purchased by Georgia, and located strategically in all six swing states in question and in major metro areas where the Vote Fairy magically delivered votes around 4 AM after Trump appeared headed to victory in those states.

Not even a semblance of an appearance of impartiality from a major vote machine vendor involved in selecting the President of the United States. And to make things more shaky, we now know that this Dr. Coomer authorized a statewide update to Georgia's Dominion software system on October 31, four days before the election, with no meaningful opportunity to review whatever he had loaded on the system.

Glad CJ Martin called. I haven't personally talked to him since being recruited by some of the other attorneys working this "State v. State" project. But he does have a great reputation in NC. (I'm dually licensed in both states so keep my ear to the railroad tracks)

I heard from one of the attorneys today working under CJ Martin say they think Texas is warming up to maybe jumping on board, possibly as soon as early next week,to file FWIW.. If that info is accurate, it's possible he may have been calling about that. Of course,for the reasons we discussed yesterday, I still think SC would be a better fit as lead, if that were to work out. I know there is a lot for you to consider, but you would have enthusiastic support from over 70 million Americans who voted for Trump,and in my opinion, which may be biased, I think the law and the facts are on our side. .

We appreciate the great job you're doing, and I'll support you either way. While we wait on Mr. Baynard to finish his tabulation, if you would like me to brief you on anything, or send you the dossier on Coomer or any of his posts, or if you'd like to see any of the dozens of affidavits we have, just let me know. The evidence of massive cheating, esp in Pa and Michigan, is overwhelming. Probably Milwaukee too. But as you say, proving the cheating swung the election might be the ultimate legal challenge. I think we'll get there.

Anyway, have a great evening, and look forward to chatting soon.

My best to Jeff.

Thanks,

Don

Subject: Followup - Explanation of hard evience expected on national voter fraud case

To: The Hon. Alan Wilson, Attorney General of South Carolina.

The Hon. Jeff Young, Chief Deputy Attorney General of South Carolina

From: Don Brown, SC State Bar #9902\

CC: The Hon. Ralph Norman, Member of Congress, 5th Congressional District

Date: November 24th, 2020

Subject: Ongoing tabulation of concrete evidence showing voter fraud being calculated by Data Scientist
Matt Braynard

Gentlemen:

Yesterday during our conversation, you raised a topic on the minds of many, that being the so-called speculative nature of the number of votes in play that may be subject to fraud. As the argument goes, there may be fraud, but proving that a specific number of votes are at play to make a difference maybe the challenge.

I mentioned that a prominent, nationally-acclaimed data scientist who specializes in elections, Mr. Matt Braynard, is assembling a study designed to uncover concrete evidence of voter fraud, not just speculation. That study is underway, but almost complete. The results may be out as soon as today.

Mr. Braynard and his team are interviewing voters listed in these “Swing States’” absentee and early voting rolls, to see if those voters' actions match with state records of the voters' actions.

The evidence now mounting is documented by follow-up affidavits, and recorded telephone conversations with these voters.

As of last week, Friday to be specific, I heard Braynard say that he had already accumulated enough solid evidence to make a difference in reversing the fraud that has occurred in Georgia. I haven't seen those numbers but that is what Mr. Braynard said.

I've been working with Sidney Powell, and now more recently with former NC Chief Justice Mark Martin's group on a variety of overlapping issues related to the democrats' shenanigans in stealing the presidential election. The memo I'm attaching you is part of the work compiled at Sidney's request, to explain Mr. Braynard's process in conducting his voter fraud study, which leads to concrete evidence of a specific number of votes subject to fraud. I'm confident this will produce hard evidence above & beyond the pale of speculation against the shysters who have tried stealing the presidential election.

When Braynard's numbers are final, I will forward those over as well.

I think it will become clear that our voters in South Carolina have been disenfranchised by the unconstitutional actions of unscrupulous Democrat election officials, especially in Michigan, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania. We follow the Constitution, they don't, and our citizens have been deprived of the equal protection of law as a result.

Thank you for your time and for your great service to the State of South Carolina.

I'm copying our mutual friend, Congressman Ralph Norman, from here in York County, as he has taken a special interest in this issue, and rightly so.

Hope to see y'all in York County soon!

Thanks, and God bless

Don

Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you for writing, and thank you especially for stating your objections in such a civil manner. We're getting a lot of negative comments on social media that are pretty over the top and I've reached the point of not even reading them.

I certainly understand your points, and if I didn't work here I would probably have the same thoughts. However, since I do work here I can see the reasons that Attorney General Wilson joined the amicus brief supporting Texas' request for the Supreme Court to hear its lawsuit.

There is a constitutional question here, and that's the whole reason he signed on. One of his main focuses is upholding the rule of law. Sometimes doing something a certain way can look like, or even be, the right thing to do, but it also needs to be done the right way. So, in this instance, expanding mail-in voting had a legitimate reason—the pandemic—but some states changed their voting rules without going through the proper procedures.

Article 2, Section 1 of the US Constitution gives state legislatures the power to choose electors for president, and also gives state legislatures the authority to decide the time, manner, and place for elections. But in some states, Secretaries of State or judges changed mail-in voting rules, like extending deadlines or saying ballots that weren't postmarked would still be accepted after Election Day. So that's the constitutional question: did those actions violate the Electors Clause of the US Constitution?

It's very possible, and most of the experts say likely, the Supreme Court won't see this as a big enough constitutional question to even hear the case. But AG Wilson's position is that he stands up for the rule of law, even if he catches a ton of flak for doing it and it would be a lot easier not to.

I've heard him use a football analogy, which ties in with what you wrote about going to Gamecock football games. The Gamecocks are behind by 5 with just a few seconds on the clock. The quarterback throws a long pass and the receiver catches it in the end zone, but the referee on the field says he was out of bounds, so no touchdown, game over, Gamecocks lose. All the AG is saying, in joining that amicus brief, is, "Mr. Ref, shouldn't you review the replay and make sure you got it right, and see whether his feet were really out of bounds?" If they do review it and say, "After further review, the ruling on the field stands. The receiver was out of bounds—incomplete pass, game over" then so be it. He'll accept that and shake the other team's hands and walk off the field.

And something else to point out, because a lot of people have complained about "spending taxpayer money" or "wasting my tax dollars" doing this, this did not cost any money. The Missouri AG's office wrote the amicus brief. They sent it to other AGs, including us. AG Wilson read it and so did a couple other attorneys, they may have suggested some edits, and then he signed it. That's it. It doesn't cost any money for him to read a brief and sign it. Going back to the football analogy, the TV cameras and replay equipment are already there, so having the refs look at the replay doesn't cost anything.

He doesn't look at this as trying to overturn the votes of the people in those four states, he sees it as trying to protect your vote. If the people of another state can make arbitrary voting rules that might allow voting fraud, then your vote is negated. What if the Secretary of State in California decided to allow 16-year-olds in California to vote, since they're old enough to drive? Now he doesn't have the authority to do that, but let's say he did it and thousands of 16-year-olds voted illegally. That would denigrate your vote and mine. That's why Texas is saying there are cases in which one state may need to sue another state, or four others—to uphold the integrity of all states' votes, because what happens in one state affects the others, since president and vice president are the only offices that all states vote on.

I know this is unlikely to sway your opinion. Like I said, I completely understand your points, and those of others who are upset about this. But I hope it at least helps you understand where he's coming from and why he did what he did.

Thank you again for your kind words and your prayers, and I also pray you and your family will have a wonderful Christmas and New Year.

Sincerely,

Robert Kittle

Dear Mr. Kittle,

I write to you as a native South Carolinian but also as a fellow citizen of these great United States of America. While I am a relatively young voter compared to some, I am also a student of history and do not recall in a long time seeing such a display of poor sportsmanship of one partisan side after losing the election - in this case both in popular and electoral votes.

South Carolina has many issues as a state - the opioid crisis, poor education, domestic and child abuse, pedophilia, sex trafficking, child sex trafficking, hate crimes (which we fail to legislate against as if pretending they do not exist smokescreens other possible agendas in our state)... and I could go on for several paragraphs.

I chose to return to the state of my birth because I do love South Carolina, and her people; I believe that I can make a difference and help to better my state.

My father - who passed 10 years ago this April - was quite the War buff and I come from a family of courageous patriots and vets on both sides. In my education at home I was raised steeped in the history and primary documents of the Civil War. What I see our state doing now feels oh so familiar to documentation I have read from our past - and not a past that I take pride in. My family fought vehemently not just for the South but to maintain our lifestyle of plantations at the forced enslavement of others who were treated as less than human.

This personal family history is in violation of the Christian principles that I hold dear. It is not a history that supports the dignity of human life. It is something we should reject - along with the behaviors of hatred that brought it about.

We can quibble day in and day out about whether this lawsuit initiated in Texas and now joined by our state of South Carolina has true constitutional merit, but if Trump were the "Victor" would you still be bringing this lawsuit? Do you bring this lawsuit because you believe Lindsey Graham stole his own election?

I have been a Gamecock fan all my life and have learned the dignity of losing and walking away with my self-respect and decency intact and my mouth shut as we made the walk through rainy parking lots full of celebrating Tiger fans. What is happening right now shames me and shames our state - again. Where is the grace in accepting the results of our election? Where is the heart and soul of the Republican party?

Soon, if South Carolina continues on this path, her native sons and daughters that have come home to help her will start making other choices about where to share talents. I fully expect SC reactions in some corners to be "good riddance", "go ahead and leave", "don't let the door hit ya....." etc.. But you and I know that at the end of the day, this propels our state down a path not of long term success, but of intolerance, ignorance, and eventually failure.

What has happened to our backbone? Our integrity? Our ability to see each other as brothers and sisters? This is the scariest element of the Civil War that I see now - this division and failure to accept the will of the American people. Please stop. We have so much room to grow if we will only get out of our own way.

I have no expectations that you will even read this letter - but I feel compelled not to follow the example of Jonah this close to Christmas and be eaten up by some proverbial whale. I pray for you and your staff at this time that God soften your hearts and lead you to put your efforts towards helping South Carolina's struggling citizens who are in need of the help of the office of the AG.

May the peace of this holiday season be a blessing to you, your friends, and family

I hope you're well. Any chance that Attorney General Wilson is available Friday in the 10 a.m. hour to come on MSNBC for a live interview. Hallie Jackson is anchoring the hour. She'd like to talk to him about his meeting today at the White House and his brief filed in support of Texas AG Paxton's lawsuit.

We could do the interview on Skype, Facetime, Webex or Zoom.

Hi Katie,

We have not joined the lawsuit yet. The court filing applies only IF the Supreme Court does agree to hear the Texas lawsuit. If it does, then we have asked to be interveners only on the question of whether states followed the electors clause in the US Constitution.

Our concern is about following the rule of law. Article 2, Section 1 of the US Constitution says state legislatures shall appoint their electors for president "in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct." But the Texas lawsuit argues that in the four states in question, people or groups other than the legislature changed voting rules, which could be unconstitutional. We think that's a question for the Supreme Court to answer.

Thanks,

Robert

Dear Robert,

I hope that you are well.

Madeleine here from CNN. I am reaching out to introduce myself to you and AG Wilson's team in hopes to streamline requests coming from CNN. I work with the Network Booking Department at CNN, which handles guest bookings and editorial content across all shows for CNN domestic, international, and digital. I would like to streamline all CNN requests through our department in hopes to alleviate the number of CNN emails you might receive. If this is something you and your team is interested in, please let me know and I will be your point of contact at CNN.

I wanted to touch base today with the news of the state amicus brief filings. CNN would like to extend an invitation to Attorney General Wilson to join us for a live interview today.

Might AG Wilson be available today to join CNN for a 7-10 min. interview via Cisco WebEx or SKYPE?

I am available all day to discuss interview opportunities. 646-465-0299. Please let me know if you have any questions and we can coordinate a time to chat on the phone.

Mr. Kittle,

I'm writing to make the Attorney General's office aware of my extreme displeasure at the decision to join this ridiculous law suit filed by the AG of Texas. The State of SC has not been mentioned in reference to any election irregularities, and therefore, should not be a part of this lawsuit. Elections are the jurisdiction of the states according to the Constitution, since, these state governments and the courts have seen fit to certify their results SC or no other state has any right to interfere in those results. The people of SC have their own problems that they need the government to focus on, instead of wasting our time and money on this ridiculous vendetta because your candidate did not win. Please confer to Mr. Wilson, my and other peoples, concern that he is not putting the interest of the people of SC ahead of his own political agenda. This is not what we want our state leaders to take part in.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kittle,

I write in vehement opposition to Mr. Wilson's statement of yesterday in which he states that he is filing an amicus brief in the Texas election lawsuit. Mr. Wilson's responsibility is to the law and the people of South Carolina. His participation in this frivolous stunt is a waste of his time and our money.

Indeed, I am shocked that Mr. Wilson can find the time to devote himself to such base distractions, given that thousands of the citizens he serves face dire health and economic circumstances. In my work, I meet daily with Americans who are suffering from poverty, hunger, sickness and despair. I am ashamed that my attorney general turns his back on them simply to flatter a would-be despot.

What does Mr. Wilson have to say to them?

I must be naive, because I thought lawyers dealt in evidence and questions of ethics. There is practically no evidence of widespread fraud in the recent election, and the tradition of American political ethics places a high value on the peaceful transition of power. On the other hand, there is manifold evidence that South Carolina faces one of its gravest challenges in the coronavirus pandemic and its economic fallout. And as a Christian, the right ethical approach is summed up in the teaching of Jesus that we are to love God and love our neighbor. Mr. Wilson's actions bespeak instead a love for power and for the approval not of God, but of Caesar.

Please forward my comments to Mr. Wilson. If he does have something to say, I would be grateful to hear it.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]

Hi Marianna,

South Carolina is joining the amicus you guys are heading up on the Texas elections lawsuit in the US Supreme Court. We want to put out a statement but wanted to check first on the timing of when the amicus will be filed before we do.

Do you know when you guys will be filing that, or when it's okay for us to put out a statement saying we've joined it?

Thanks,

Robert

Hi Kevin,

At this point we're looking at what Texas filed and are discussing next steps. We did join an amicus in one of the lawsuits in Pennsylvania, the one questioning the constitutionality of the Pennsylvania courts extending the timeline for accepting votes rather than the legislature doing that, but we haven't made a decision yet about the Texas lawsuit.

Dear Alan Wilson, SC. AG,

You should be disbarred & charged with conspiracy to commit sedition, subvert American democracy & overturn the will of voters.

Or, you should be disbarred for your sheer ignorance. SCOTUS was not amused with you and the other 16 AGs' Texas lawsuit. History will remember your deeds & lies. You are a disgrace to our State and the entire US.

Most sincerely,

Dear Ms. [REDACTED],

Thank you for writing, and thank you especially for stating your objections in such a civil manner. We're getting a lot of negative comments on social media that are pretty over the top and I've reached the point of not even reading them.

I certainly understand your points, and if I didn't work here I would probably have the same thoughts. However, since I do work here I can see the reasons that Attorney General Wilson joined the amicus brief supporting Texas' request for the Supreme Court to hear its lawsuit.

There is a constitutional question here, and that's the whole reason he signed on. One of his main focuses is upholding the rule of law. Sometimes doing something a certain way can look like, or even be, the right thing to do, but it also needs to be done the right way. So, in this instance, expanding mail-in voting had a legitimate reason—the pandemic—but some states changed their voting rules without going through the proper procedures.

Article 2, Section 1 of the US Constitution gives state legislatures the power to choose electors for president, and also gives state legislatures the authority to decide the time, manner, and place for elections. But in some states, Secretaries of State or judges changed mail-in voting rules, like extending deadlines or saying ballots that weren't postmarked would still be accepted after Election Day. So that's the constitutional question: did those actions violate the Electors Clause of the US Constitution?

It's very possible, and most of the experts say likely, the Supreme Court won't see this as a big enough constitutional question to even hear the case. But AG Wilson's position is that he stands up for the rule of law, even if he catches a ton of flak for doing it and it would be a lot easier not to.

I've heard him use a football analogy, which ties in with what you wrote about going to Gamecock football games. The Gamecocks are behind by 5 with just a few seconds on the clock. The quarterback throws a long pass and the receiver catches it in the end zone, but the referee on the field says he was out of bounds, so no touchdown, game over, Gamecocks lose. All the AG is saying, in joining that amicus brief, is, "Mr. Ref, shouldn't you review the replay and make sure you got it right, and see whether his feet were really out of bounds?" If they do review it and say, "After further review, the ruling on the field stands. The receiver was out of bounds—incomplete pass, game over" then so be it. He'll accept that and shake the other team's hands and walk off the field.

And something else to point out, because a lot of people have complained about "spending taxpayer money" or "wasting my tax dollars" doing this, this did not cost any money. The Missouri AG's office wrote the amicus brief. They sent it to other AGs, including us. AG Wilson read it and so did a couple other attorneys, they may have suggested some edits, and then he signed it. That's it. It doesn't cost any money for him to read a brief and sign it. Going back to the football analogy, the TV cameras and replay equipment are already there, so having the refs look at the replay doesn't cost anything.

He doesn't look at this as trying to overturn the votes of the people in those four states, he sees it as trying to protect your vote. If the people of another state can make arbitrary voting rules that might allow voting fraud, then your vote is negated. What if the Secretary of State in California decided to allow 16-year-olds in California to vote, since they're old enough to drive? Now he doesn't have the authority to do that, but let's say he did it and thousands of 16-year-olds voted illegally. That would denigrate your vote and mine. That's why Texas is saying there are cases in which one state may need to sue another state, or four others—to uphold the integrity of all states' votes, because what happens in one state affects the others, since president and vice president are the only offices that all states vote on.

I know this is unlikely to sway your opinion. Like I said, I completely understand your points, and those of others who are upset about this. But I hope it at least helps you understand where he's coming from and why he did what he did.

Thank you again for your kind words and your prayers, and I also pray you and your family will have a wonderful Christmas and New Year.

Sincerely,

Robert Kittle

Dear Mr. Kittle,

I write to you as a native South Carolinian but also as a fellow citizen of these great United States of America. While I am a relatively young voter compared to some, I am also a student of history and do not recall in a long time seeing such a display of poor sportsmanship of one partisan side after losing the election - in this case both in popular and electoral votes.

South Carolina has many issues as a state - the opioid crisis, poor education, domestic and child abuse, pedophilia, sex trafficking, child sex trafficking, hate crimes (which we fail to legislate against as if pretending they do not exist smokescreens other possible agendas in our state)... and I could go on for several paragraphs.

I chose to return to the state of my birth because I do love South Carolina, and her people; I believe that I can make a difference and help to better my state.

My father - who passed 10 years ago this April - was quite the War buff and I come from a family of courageous patriots and vets on both sides. In my education at home I was raised steeped in the history and primary documents of the Civil War. What I see our state doing now feels oh so familiar to documentation I have read from our past - and not a past that I take pride in. My family fought vehemently not just for the South but to maintain our lifestyle of plantations at the forced enslavement of others who were treated as less than human.

This personal family history is in violation of the Christian principles that I hold dear. It is not a history that supports the dignity of human life. It is something we should reject - along with the behaviors of hatred that brought it about.

We can quibble day in and day out about whether this lawsuit initiated in Texas and now joined by our state of South Carolina has true constitutional merit, but if Trump were the "Victor" would you still be bringing this lawsuit? Do you bring this lawsuit because you believe Lindsey Graham stole his own election?

I have been a Gamecock fan all my life and have learned the dignity of losing and walking away with my self-respect and decency intact and my mouth shut as we made the walk through rainy parking lots full of celebrating Tiger fans. What is happening right now shames me and shames our state - again. Where is the grace in accepting the results of our election? Where is the heart and soul of the Republican party?

Soon, if South Carolina continues on this path, her native sons and daughters that have come home to help her will start making other choices about where to share talents. I fully expect SC reactions in some corners to be "good riddance", "go ahead and leave", "don't let the door hit ya...." etc.. But you and I know that at the end of the day, this propels our state down a path not of long term success, but of intolerance, ignorance, and eventually failure.

What has happened to our backbone? Our integrity? Our ability to see each other as brothers and sisters? This is the scariest element of the Civil War that I see now - this division and failure to accept the will of the American people. Please stop. We have so much room to grow if we will only get out of our own way.

I have no expectations that you will even read this letter - but I feel compelled not to follow the example of Jonah this close to Christmas and be eaten up by some proverbial whale. I pray for you and your staff at this time that God soften your hearts and lead you to put your efforts towards helping South Carolina's struggling citizens who are in need of the help of the office of the AG.

May the peace of this holiday season be a blessing to you, your friends, and family

Dear Attorney General Wilson,

I urge you to join the State of Texas in their Federal Lawsuit against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan and State of Wisconsin. As a resident of South Carolina, I feel that the issues addressed in the Texas lawsuit have effectively disenfranchised our votes. This cannot go unchallenged. I know it is hard to stand up during these times, but you simply must. History will judge you on your decisions regarding this year and this election. Please don't let us down!

I urge you to take action for our State, Our Nation and our Future. Join the Lawsuit filed on Monday, December 7th, 2020 by the State of Texas.

Thank You and God Bless,

I'm writing to absolutely INSIST that you immediately take action to join the case filed by the state of Texas in the US Supreme Court suing 2020 election battleground states for violating the US constitution. Our way of life is in jeopardy. I will be watching your office and waiting impatiently for action. Any inaction will be viewed by the people of this great state as being complicit in the fraud.

Make haste. There is not a single second to waste. Now is the time. History will remember you. Patriots on Guard.

Mr. Wilson,

I would urge you to refrain from joining in the lawsuit filed by the Attorney General of Texas against four other states regarding alleged irregularities in those states' presidential election processes. That suit will not last the week. As a taxpayer in the State of South Carolina, I object to any of our state resources being used to join this exercise in grandstanding.

Counselor,

I read the Missouri AG's amicus brief filed today, and I was shocked and angered at seeing your name - and our beloved state - included among the 17 bumbling partisan fools who allowed their names to be added to it. My disgust for your actions cannot be overstated. You are allowing your office and our state to be used in the attempted subversion of the democratic process. You are choosing partisanship to a thankless narcissist over the time-honored and long-respected democratic process that has served our country for over two centuries. The people have spoken, and they have spoken in every state, whether it was for Donald Trump or Joe Biden. There is absolutely NO proof that fraud occurred in any state to upset the sanctity of that vote or the reputable character of the process. As you know, dozens of opportunities to present such proof in dozens of states has been afforded, and NOTHING HAS BEEN PROFFERED, leading to courts denying every challenge. By joining in this sham of a lawsuit, you are effectively casting doubt upon the democratic process where none should exist. This is, of course, to say nothing about the fact that Texas, South Carolina, or any other state has no say in the procedures in which other states run their elections or handle any other state-specific matter.

As a member of the South Carolina Bar, I'm absolutely embarrassed to call you a colleague today based on this. You have driven a wedge further between the people and their trust in our nation, especially during a time of so much division and in-fighting and where we desperately need to come together. I hope your blind devotion to something you feel is bigger than the well-being of our country was worth it to you.

Dear Fellow American,

Forget about Democrat or Republican when you read Texas lawsuit against four defendants states in the election you either believe in the Constitution or not. Laws were broken. And if this case is not heard election fraud will be the only way to win future elections as it would be legally acceptable to break election laws. If this case is not decided on the merits America will begin to crumble and break up. We expect you to back Texas and many other states like my home state of Florida. Local races for Republicans are going to have national pressure we're going to remember Who fought for our country and who did not. This is about Trump because he's the victim but this has nothing to do with Trump this is the most important case ever taken on by the Supreme Court in the history of the United States. It's a simple question does the constitution matter if you don't back Texas publicly you think it's just a piece of paper Millions will remember the way you see our constitution. Local Republican elections have now become nationally, we will invest to out anyone who is not for America first. I expect to hear you back this most important litigation.

We back you until you give up on our country,

I am a Utah resident. I wanted to quickly email you about the SCOTUS lawsuit that was filed by the State of Texas against Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin & Georgia in regards to the 2020 presidential election.

I urge and plead with you to join the fight with Texas and/or file a similar lawsuit. I have deep concerns regarding the conduct of the 2020 federal election. Some states appear to have conducted their elections with a disregard to the U.S. Constitution. I believe a large portion of American citizens feels this way as well.

How can American citizens trust our election process if other states conducted outside the confines of the Constitution while we followed the rules?

Please act swiftly. Thank you for your time.

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you as a citizen of Illinois to urge you to support Texas in their lawsuit against Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, and Wisconsin in the Supreme Court. This is an unprecedented time in the history of our country, and unprecedented times call for unprecedented acts of courage and bravery to do what is right. The fate of our country is in your hands, and your hands alone.

There is so much corruption within our country, as we are finding out day by day, and we cannot let that prevail. Too much blood has been shed and too many lives have been lost fighting for what we are incredibly lucky to call our great country. However, as you know, freedom is not free. It's not an accident that we have the greatest country in the history of mankind - it did not just happen by chance. It happened due to hard work, bravery, courage, and the willingness of those before us to do what is RIGHT.

Please, we cannot let our country fall into the wrong hands. The stakes have never been higher. Please support and back Texas in this lawsuit, I urge you.

Signed,

Thank you for all of your hard work keeping South Carolina safe.

As we get incredibly close to the deadline to file federal lawsuits, I urge you to join the State of Texas in their Federal Lawsuit against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan and State of Wisconsin.

While your work within the State of South Carolina is commendable, there is perhaps no greater threat to our State than that of Federal Corruption threatening to tear apart the Union.

Without Law and Order in our State and in our Republic, your office, and this State, are meaningless.

I urge you to not sit idly by; I urge you to take action for our State, Our Nation and our Future. Join the Lawsuit filed on Monday, December 7th, 2020 by the State of Texas.

History remembers great men and their actions during scandalous times.

History has no place for men who sit idly by, thankful their State had no major issues with Voting Integrity, sitting out the rest of their elected term happily prosecuting prisoners involved in "Yard Work."

You have a higher calling, and your time is now. Step up to the plate, Sir.

Good Afternoon AG Hill,

I'd like to request that you join Texas and AG Ken Paxton in the State of Texas v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan, and State of Wisconsin. We need to defend our constitutional rights as voters and prevent a fraud of this magnitude from corrupting our political landscape for years to come. We owe it every U.S. citizen to stand up and fight for this sacred right to vote and for our votes to count. We, the people of South Carolina, NEED you to back Texas in this effort.

When states are complicit in fraud, they are not only disenfranchising their own voters but also every one of us in all other states. Fraudulent election results in other states directly affect and silence our voices here in South Carolina, as we all still are ruled under the same federal government. Again, I request that you join the state of Texas in their lawsuit against Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Please join Texas in the lawsuit suing GA, PA, MI, and WI for violating the constitution. Their elections have been done under illegal means and it is a disenfranchisement to all of the legal voters across the country! We cannot let the lawlessness of a handful of states affect the entire countries vote. I hope you will join Texas in the fight for lawful and fair elections!
Thank you

Dear Honorable Alan Wilson and Staff;

Good evening! My name is [REDACTED] from Rock Hill, SC. The reason I am contacting you today is because I believe other states are violating the Constitution of the United States in their handling of the November 3rd election. In brief, the argument is this: Several states have sidestepped their own state legislatures and the Constitution to make drastic changes to election laws and rules - especially pertaining to mail-in ballots. This was done through executive actions instead of legislative ones.

Texas has now sued Georgia, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania for this very reason. I respectfully ask that you, as our Attorney General file a similar suit on behalf of the State of South Carolina.

From the filing to SCOTUS: Certain officials in the Defendant States presented the pandemic as the justification for ignoring state laws regarding absentee and mail-in voting. The Defendant States flooded their citizenry with tens of millions of ballot applications and ballots in derogation of statutory controls as to how they are lawfully received, evaluated, and counted. Whether well intentioned or not, these unconstitutional acts had the same uniform effect—they made the 2020 election less secure in the Defendant States. Those changes are inconsistent with relevant state laws and were made by non-legislative entities, without any consent by the state legislatures. The acts of these officials thus directly violated the Constitution.

This case presents a question of law: Did the Defendant States violate the Electors Clause by taking non-legislative actions to change the election rules that would govern the appointment of presidential electors? These non-legislative changes to the Defendant States' election laws facilitated the casting and counting of ballots in violation of state law, which, in turn, violated the Electors Clause of Article II, Section 1, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution. By these unlawful acts, the Defendant States have not only tainted the integrity of their own citizens' vote, but their actions have also debased the votes of citizens in Plaintiff State and other States that remained loyal to the Constitution.

Texas is asking the Supreme Court to order the states to allow their legislatures to appoint their electors. I feel that these are simple yet solid constitutional arguments and I feel it would be appropriate to file a similar suit on our behalf. Why do these states get to change the rules while the rest of us played by them?

We want to submit our very valuable EC votes to a lawful and fair election, not toss them into the abyss of a beclouded outcome caused by other states.

Below you will find a link to the article with a copy of the full complaint:
<https://www.texasattorneygeneral.gov/sites/default/files/images/admin/2020/Press/SCOTUSFiling.pdf>

Thank you very much for your time in considering this matter.

Respectfully,

I am asking you to immediately join the Texas lawsuit presented before the SCOTUS for numerous reasons:

1. There is a preponderance of affidavits attesting to malfeasance conducted by election workers in multiple states.
2. Dominion derives from the following path Smartmatic -> Sequoia -> Dominion. In 2006 even CNN reported that Smartmatic was used to flip the Venezuelan election for Chavez and was indeed essential to the destruction of that nation and crucial in its descent into tyranny. The same will happen here if the fraud stands.
3. Dominion's parent company collected a $400 million payment from a Chinese controlled bank in October 2020.
4. Eric Coomer, chief security engineer of Dominion, is a radically hateful anti-Trumper who promised Antifa that Trump would not win, as it was taken care of.
5. The fundamental counting mechanism in Dominion machines, the chips, were made in China.
6. Multiple sources show how Democrats and hackers have decried how unreliable it is.
7. The swing states created laws a year in advance without their legislative branches and against the Constitution solely to ram through changes that can utilize these machines. (Democrats and even some Republicans were more than likely incentivized by Chinese money. Kemp has been photographed with Chinese nationals later designated as spies, and Kemp is in video asking China for money.) Using cover of the Chinese virus, these rogue statesmen claimed special and extra time and provisions that did not apply equally to all states so that they could use the extra mail in ballots, printed overseas, printed elsewhere, and transported by unwitting citizens, to thoroughly and irreversibly spoil all trust in the vote and yet with media allies hope to ram through the results anyway.
8. Every state is dealing with covid. While each state has different needs, every state must go through the proper process no matter what. The Constitution mandates that legislative branches write the laws, and they did this to halt fraudulent, criminal and treasonous activities from corrupt single politicians who, on partisan lines, decreed what should be done... all in order to bypass consent of the governed. The governed did not want their cheating criminals to perpetrate fraud, no matter the outcome! This is why they avoided going through proper scrutiny! Had they done so, the cheating would have never happened on this scale.
9. Chinese communists, as broadcast on Tucker Carlson, brag about and laugh about how they bribe Wall Street and so-called elites... and openly say Biden is one of them. They also say they helped Hunter Biden lay the foundation for his global criminal scheme.

10. This election was predominantly won by communist China. But they had to convince a handful of politicians to violate the Constitution to do it. Do not let this stand. The Constitution has a powerful immune response to such a toxic virus! It designated The People's closest representatives to convene, in the inevitable event of widespread felonious and treasonous behavior, and sort out a proper representation actual is. So cheat as people might, and they did in incomprehensible ways this year, the cheating can be legally overcome!

Please join the fight against Chinese infiltration and join the other states to overcome the premeditated fraud which purposefully ignored the Constitution in order to commit these crimes! The Constitution will prevail!

Sincerely and Goodspeed to you,

Date: Tuesday, December 8, 2020 6:40:24 PM

Mr. Wilson,

I felt it was important to contact you, I am a North Carolina resident , soon to be SC resident only living a few miles from the border currently.

My name is [REDACTED], I am a former 82nd Airborne Paratrooper, Infantryman and served over 850 days forward deployed in combat in Baghdad and Fallujah. I work in Veteran Affairs education certification locally and am a member of a large network through the VFW, VA and American Legion. These concerns you are going to read are shared unanimously with individuals I have been in contact with.

For the purpose of brevity I will keep this as brief as I can, I have many other representatives to speak to but I am counting on your consistent record and integrity. Many of you are veterans yourself.

Having watched most of the testimonies in MI, PA , AZ and GA and viewing the information that has come from private citizen audits, including phone audits, data scraping and public voting information impropriety I am extremely disturbed to the point of having no motivation to participate in future elections.

While I understand real concerns existing with Dominion, a system democrats themselves railed against being used back in 2016 are real, let's set that aside for a moment and focus on the core constitutional issue at hand. Voter disenfranchisement.

This is the civil rights issue of OUR lifetime, akin to Dred Scott V Sandford. Voters have been penalized and fractionalized.

We have reason to believe and already shown that ballots were counted nationwide are appearing that were -

- Cast by Felons
- Cast out of state
- Cast by non residents
- Duplicated
- Manipulated with voters info that had no intent on voting
- Ballots with missing chain of custody
- Those counted in states in violation of state law conditions
- Our representatives physically removed from voting stations

The issue at hand are these ballots cast are negating votes cast legally with provenance and pedigree, canceling out voices and disenfranchising voters. If we cannot secure and protect voters, regardless of party from this type of silencing due to either malfeasance or failed security measures, there is no point in casting a vote. This is the type of behavior that takes place in elections in places like Sudan, Iran and Syria. This is not a partisan issue and votes counted in bad faith are not about Trump, I am in fact a registered independent but have voted republican the last two cycles.

Furthermore we have intelligent professionals, many with various backgrounds in cyber security coming forward with real issues and providing sworn testimony, they are being silenced as if we live in some alternative reality.

I will close with this, as a soldier, I swore an oath to defend and protect the Constitution. The oaths we took are similar and have no expiration. When I deployed, I weighed the real possibility my life may be given in the service of my nation, and I accepted that knowing my sacrifice would be for things such as "right to vote" "equal protection under the law" "One person, ONE VOTE".. in reflection over the last week or two as massive impropriety has come forward, myself and many veterans have reflected on their services and many in these groups have suggested the reaction from our public officials makes them regret wearing a uniform, taking that oath or even have served for a concept they now believe was a sham.

As I voted in line here, we had more than one person indicate they had family or knew of someone personally that could not vote due to ballots cast in their name, going to the PA voting website you can view absentee ballots by date requested, yes over 60 were requested from those born in the year 1800. This is illegal and textbook disenfranchisement.

What strikes me most is in Iraq during the general election, we provided American lives to secure their process, they dipped their fingers in ink, people were killed.. Americans lost their lives so the Iraqis could vote..they faced executions, kidnappings and car bombs at their polling station yet when we return home, our own elections are treated as a game, shirked off as a sport where someone is simply sore they lost in the face of massive impropriety.

Why have we not heard from a single democrat to audit the vote? Typically from my criminal justice background individuals with nothing to hide are happy for forensic audit, this is alarming, the amount of silent republicans is also disturbing. I want all votes counted regardless of party.

Today Texas has filed against GA, MI, PA, WI, I would ask the SC support the Lone Star state in these historic issues, again, this is a civil rights issue and needs to be addressed now, the time is in the present and our Republic is at stake. I understand Louisiana had just joined and hearing rumors Florida. Again much like Scott V Sanford, South Carolina should be defending such an assault on voter integrity. I expect nothing out of the NC AG, so here we are.

I look forward to hearing from you and asking you to fight, where I as a humble citizen and constituent cannot.

With the passing of Colonel Yeager I will leave you with this, reflecting our current situation..

Attorney General Wilson,

I am writing to request that you stand with the great state of Texas and assist them in their lawsuit to support the voters of the US. We do not want to be disenfranchised by the rogue actions of states who are allowing the election to be tainted. South Carolina should stand tall with Texas and save the integrity of our elections! Thank you!

Alan, I'm sure you're aware that last night the State of Texas filed a lawsuit in the US Supreme Court, challenging the presidential elections in PA, GA, MI and WI. I've attached a copy of their pleadings (the Motion to file; Bill of Complaint; Brief; Motions for TRO, preliminary injunction and/or stay; and Motion to Expedite), as well as a link, for your reference.

Are you considering having South Carolina join in that lawsuit, either as a party plaintiff or by filing an amicus curiae brief in support? If not, I would encourage you to do so. It couldn't hurt to have more states backing Texas in this matter; it might help encourage the Court to grant Texas standing and accept the case.

Thank you.

Dear Honorable AG Alan Wilson and Staff;

Good Afternoon. My name is Matthew Vidalis from Carmel N.Y., The reason I am contacting you today is because, like many New Yorkers. I feel that other states are violating the Constitution of the United States in their handling of the November 3rd election. In brief, the argument is this: Several states have sidestepped their own state legislatures and the Constitution to make drastic changes to election laws and rules - especially pertaining to mail-in ballots. This was done through executive actions instead of legislative ones.

Texas has now sued Georgia, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania for this very reason. I respectfully ask that you, as our Attorney General file a similar suit on behalf of the State of Indiana.

From the filing to SCOTUS: Certain officials in the Defendant States presented the pandemic as the justification for ignoring state laws regarding absentee and mail-in voting. The Defendant States flooded their citizenry with tens of millions of ballot applications and ballots in derogation of statutory controls as to how they are lawfully received, evaluated, and counted. Whether well intentioned or not, these unconstitutional acts had the same uniform effect—they made the 2020 election less secure in the Defendant States. Those changes are inconsistent with relevant state laws and were made by non-legislative entities, without any consent by the state legislatures. The acts of these officials thus directly violated the Constitution.

This case presents a question of law: Did the Defendant States violate the Electors Clause by taking non-legislative actions to change the election rules that would govern the appointment of presidential electors? These non-legislative changes to the Defendant States' election laws facilitated the casting and counting of ballots in violation of state law, which, in turn, violated the Electors Clause of Article II, Section 1, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution. By these unlawful acts, the Defendant States have not only tainted the integrity of their own citizens' vote, but their actions have also debased the votes of citizens in Plaintiff State and other States that remained loyal to the Constitution.

Texas is asking the Supreme Court to order the states to allow their legislatures to appoint their electors. I feel that these are simple yet solid constitutional arguments and I feel it would be appropriate to file a similar suit on our behalf. Why do these states get to change the rules while the rest of us played by them?

South Carolina 9 has Electoral Votes in this game. That's significant. We want to submit our very valuable EC votes to a lawful and fair election, not just toss them into the abyss of a beclouded outcome caused by other states.

I would like to request that you join Texas in the State of Texas v. Dear AG Wilson,

I completely support Texas' lawsuit against Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, and Wisconsin, recently filed at the Supreme Court.

As a very concerned voting resident, I encourage South Carolina, with your leadership, to join in this lawsuit. The scale of fraud has been overwhelming, and despite the usual gaslighting from the msm, it is completely obvious to the rest of us what a sham election this was; worse yet, it's starting to look like a hostile takeover from foreign and domestic enemies. We can spare no expense at this late hour. Please get us on board! Thanks for your time.

Dear, Attorney General Wilson,

Thank you for all of your hard work for South Carolina.

As we get incredibly close to the deadline to file federal lawsuits, I urge you to join the State of Texas in their Federal Lawsuit against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan and State of Wisconsin.

While your work within the State of South Carolina is commendable, there is perhaps no greater threat to our State than that of Federal Corruption threatening to tear apart the Union.

As a voting resident in Columbia, I strongly encourage South Carolina to join the lawsuit. This widespread voter fraud is outrageous and obvious at this point, and the covering up by corrupt politicians, big tech, and the media is disturbing to say the least. I assure you from what I have seen online, there is a large mass of people in this country and around the world that are feeling extreme anger and frustration at the refusal to do ballot signature audits and forensic examinations of Dominion machines in these states. It's a large sign broadcasting a coverup of massive proportions by those responsible for this election robbery. If these results are allowed to stand without proper investigation, the voting integrity of our Republic will be shattered and the trust in future elections will be held in nothing short of the regard held for Banana Republics.

The anniversary of Pearl Harbor is a stark reminder that there comes a time of crises in our history that must be met with men and women of integrity and honor who are not afraid to stand up for what is right. Please do not allow South Carolina to be complicit in this robbery, please fight for the integrity of our Republic, please join this lawsuit.

Thank you

The Honorable Alan Wilson,

I am in full support of Texas' lawsuit against Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, and Wisconsin, which has recently been filed at the Supreme Court, that is currently filed under the title of "State of Texas v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan, and State of Wisconsin."

As a voting resident, I encourage the State of South Carolina to join the State of Texas in the lawsuit, and humbly ask that you initiate any and all legal requirements necessary to do so.

I have attached a PDF file from the Attorney General of the State of Texas which outlines the case being filed, and hope that you will decide upon joining them in their lawsuit for the good of the nation as a whole, as our future may hinge greatly upon the decision made on this matter.

Thank you very much for your time, and I pray that our great Palmetto State will be a friend for the Lone Star State, who is currently greatly in need of one.

Respectfully yours,

The citizens who have been ignored for far too long and just had the ballot box taken away from them demand SC join the Texas lawsuit to overturn this third world banana republic election. Any Republican who refuses to stand up for election integrity must understand they will have no political career in the future. Citizens will remember those who showed a lack of courage. Voters will never reward those who betrayed the ballot box.

I am wondering about the stance of the South Carolina AG office with regards to the Texas Election Lawsuit that is being filed to protect our elections:

I implore you to join the state of Texas and AG Ken Paxton in this fight to defend our constitutional republic from the corruption that took place in key swing states during the 2020 election. We the people deserve to have our voices heard. We need to let them know that we will not stand for this injustice, and that the sanctity of the voting process is in the balance.

Although I am not a resident of your lovely state, please know that you have my and my family's full support should you choose to pursue this important matter.

Good afternoon AG,

My name is [REDACTED] and I am a very concerned American Patriot. The reason I am contacting you today is because, like many other Americans, I feel that other states are violating the Constitution of the United States in their handling of the November 3rd election. In brief, the argument is this: Several states have sidestepped their own state legislatures and the Constitution to make drastic changes to election laws and rules - especially pertaining to mail-in ballots. This was done through executive actions instead of legislative ones.

Texas has now sued Georgia, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania for this very reason. I respectfully ask that you, as our Attorney General file a similar suit on behalf of the State of South Carolina.

From the filing to SCOTUS: Certain officials in the Defendant States presented the pandemic as the justification for ignoring state laws regarding absentee and mail-in voting. The Defendant States flooded their citizenry with tens of millions of ballot applications and ballots in derogation of statutory controls as to how they are lawfully received, evaluated, and counted. Whether well intentioned or not, these unconstitutional acts had the same uniform effect—they made the 2020 election less secure in the Defendant States. Those changes are inconsistent with relevant state laws and were made by non-legislative entities, without any consent by the state legislatures. The acts of these officials thus directly violated the Constitution.

This case presents a question of law: Did the Defendant States violate the Electors Clause by taking non-legislative actions to change the election rules that would govern the appointment of presidential electors? These non-legislative changes to the Defendant States' election laws facilitated the casting and counting of ballots in violation of state law, which, in turn, violated the Electors Clause of Article II, Section 1, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution. By these unlawful acts, the Defendant States have not only tainted the integrity of their own citizens' vote, but their actions have also debased the votes of citizens in Plaintiff State and other States that remained loyal to the Constitution.

Texas is asking the Supreme Court to order the states to allow their legislatures to appoint their electors. I feel that these are simple yet solid constitutional arguments and I feel it would be appropriate to file a similar suit on our behalf. Why do these states get to change the rules while the rest of us played by them?

GOVERNOR HENRY MCMASTER
ATTN: Leigh Lemoine

This past Nov 3 election was fraudulent and stolen by the Dems and this is one remedy. Art 2, Sec 1, Cl 2 of US Constitution gives to state legislatures right to send electors, not the Governor or state courts. By WI, PA, GA and MI allowing theft and such rampant voter fraud they have disenfranchised SC voters too. Texas has led the way by filing suit with SCOTUS. SC's AG should join this suit. We can't let Biden and the Dems take over US government in such a flagrant and fraudulent steal. AG Alan Wilson needs to do his job too. [REDACTED], Chaplain (Lt.Col.) USAR Ret at [REDACTED] (cell)

Call your State AGs and have them sign on the Texas case as co-plaintiffs. This case will prevail if it has more aggrieved parties listed.

Philly Election Officials Actually Ignored Corruption After It Was Obvious

Dear Attorneys General,

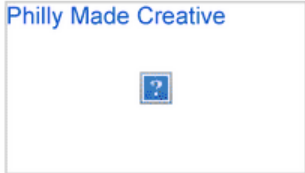

I saw that your states have all joined in writing an amicus brief to the Supreme Court about the challenges we are facing in Pennsylvania with respect to having a fair & honest election. First of all let me extend my gratitude that you have gone out of your way to help out a struggling state like ours. The fact is that corruption runs deep in this government, and the city of Philadelphia may be among the most egregious places in the country for this kind of thing.

While most of the lawsuit(s) I'm seeing are dealing with the ballot counting fiasco, I think that somebody should be seriously looking back even a few months to when it became obvious to most people living in the city of Philadelphia (and the state of Pennsylvania) that this was going to present major problems. Mostly I find it objectionable that people like Al Schmidt (the city commissioner on the election board) claim there is no fraud here.

It was obvious to anybody who was looking; and they should have been (if they weren't).

Please advise if anybody has any questions for me about this I would be honored to help.

Patriotically Yours,
