The President

Dear Fans:

Welcome to the 2019 season of the Appalachian League. We are excited about another great season of professional baseball in our storied league. This year marks our 62nd season as an Advanced Rookie League and 108th season of Appalachian League baseball overall.

Congratulations to the 2018 Appalachian League Champion Elizabethton Twins who won back to back pennants. Elizabethton now leads the league with twelve Appy League titles. Princeton, led by Manager of the Year Danny Sheaffer and Player of the Year Wander Franco, won the East Division. Off the field award winners included Cardinals General Manager Zac Clark, as he was selected the Executive of the Year and received the Promotional Award of Excellence for his efforts in Johnson City.

The league also received national recognition as Pulaski Yankees General Manager Betsy Haugh was presented with the 2018 Rawlings Woman Executive of the Year Award by Minor League Baseball. The Yankees led the Appalachian League in attendance for the fourth consecutive year, drawing more than 90,000 fans to Historic Calfee Park.

A number of great players, including Hall of Famers Nolan Ryan, Cal Ripken, Jr., Jim Thome and top prospects Ronald Acuna, Jr. and Vladimir Guerrero, Jr., have all played in the Appalachian League. Like these players, the players you are seeing tonight will look back years from now and remember the time they spent in your ballpark and your community.

We are glad you decided to spend a few hours with us watching our great game. Our clubs are proud of the food we serve, the promotions on the field and the affordable family entertainment we bring to our ten communities in North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Please come again soon to see the Appalachian League in action.

Sincerely,

Dan Moushon
President

League History

The Appalachian League was born in 1911 with teams in Asheville, N.C.; Bristol, Va.; Cleveland, Tenn.; Johnson City, Tenn.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Morristown, Tenn. That first version of the league lasted just four years, with the league disbanding in the middle of the 1914 season when Morristown and Middleboro, Ky., folded on June 17.

The league reformed in 1921 with six teams: Bristol; Cleveland; Greeneville, Tenn.; Johnson City; Kingsport, Tenn.; and Knoxville. That incarnation of the league managed five seasons, before again closing up shop midway through 1925.

In 1937, the league was restarted with teams in Elizabethton, Tenn.; Johnson City; Newport, Tenn.; and Pennington Gap, Va. During World War II, while most other minor leagues ceased operations, the Appalachian League played on. It continued right up until 1955. That year legendary minor league slugger Leo "Muscle" Shoals led the league with 33 homers and 134 RBIs in a 126-game season for Kingsport. It was the fifth Appalachian League home run title for Shoals, who had also led in 1939, 1946, 1947 and 1951.

The modern Appalachian League began in 1957, its first year as a short-season league. Six teams played that year, in Bluefield, W.Va.; Johnson City; Kingsport; Pulaski, Va.; Salem, Va.; and Wytheville, Va.

This record book focuses on the league since 1957.
