HOW TO PLAY:

CONTINUED FROM PREVIOUS PAGE

- Each player/team should use the chips numbered 1 through 9 as if they are the lineup for the team. Players can give these chips names for their scorebook or keep them as 1 through 9. These chips should be kept in order and players are encouraged to have an “on-deck” chip/batter ready and the other chips in a “dugout” as if it were a live baseball game.
- The player that is designated as the away team will roll the dice until they accumulate three outs. Once that occurs, the player designated as the home team will roll both dice until three outs are reached. The inning is over after both players have reached three outs. Standard games are 9 innings but can be shortened for time constraints.
- Both players/teams should keep track of the results using the scorebook sheet provided.
- A double play can only occur if there are runners on base. If there are no runners on base then the roll is recorded as an out.
