

AHA Equity Transformation Partners

- Advance health equity within your organization
- and community through the vetted services and resources of AHA Equity Transformation Partners.

The AHA Equity Transformation Partners (ETP) program's goal is to identify an exclusive group of trusted and vetted services to help American Hospital Association (AHA) member hospitals accelerate on their health equity journey. The program connects AHA members to trusted practitioners and organizations committed to equity transformation work.

Background: AHA and Health Equity

The Institute for Diversity and Health Equity (IFDHE), part of the American Hospital Association (AHA), works closely with hospitals and health systems to advance health equity, diversity and inclusion, and eliminate health disparities.

The Health Equity Roadmap is a resource to support members on their health equity journey. It features six levers, or key performance indicators, of transformation. As part of the Health Equity Roadmap, the Health Equity Transformation Assessment helps members evaluate where they are on their health equity journey. Members are then given a tailored action plan and access to resources and toolkits that lay out steps to progress from one stage to the next.

The AHA Equity Transformation Partners (ETP) program is your next step in progressing toward equity transformation.

As your organization charts its path toward equity transformation, accelerate your journey by taking advantage of the valuable insight, knowledge and resources available through Equity Transformation Partners.

These highly reputable, qualified practitioners and service providers demonstrate alignment with the Health Equity Roadmap framework. Evaluated by AHA's recognized health equity experts and verified by AHA members, the ETP Program provides a trusted network of partners that can support organizations like yours that are committed to change.

- ETP service providers must have an established hospital/health system client base.
- Through their work, ETP service providers must demonstrate they share the AHA's commitment to a just society of healthy communities.
- ETP service providers must show commitment to continuous improvement and sharing promising practices with the field.
