2022-2023 COMMUNITY REPORT

BUILDING STRONGER COMMUNITIES

MESSAGE FROM THE OWNER

In my experience, if you want to be successful building anything, the key is to start with a strong foundation.

When I bought the New England Patriots in 1994, the Patriots were the NFL's worst-performing franchise both on and off the field. We knew that in order to do more and to build a brand of which our fans could be proud, we needed to establish a team foundation. My family's mission for the foundation is to continue to give back and positively impact the lives of people in our local communities. For the past 29 years, our goal has been to expand the scale and scope of our philanthropic giving to serve the needs of our region's most vulnerable populations. With the incredible support of our fans, we have continued to provide assistance to thousands of local nonprofit organizations with initiatives that provide family healthcare, fight homelessness and hunger, aid our military and veterans, teach the importance of nutrition and exercise and encourage education and mentoring.

In the 103-year history of the NFL, the success the Patriots have had on the field over the past quarter century is unprecedented and may never be replicated. When I bought the Patriots, bringing those championships home to New England was my "big dream," but building a brand that would positively impact the lives of millions in our communities was always my goal. I am eternally grateful to all the players, coaches, staff, fans and countless volunteers who have contributed to the team effort needed to achieve each of those missions.

This annual report reflects the remarkable year-round contributions and the positive impact the team continues to have through the Patriots Foundation. On behalf of my family and the entire Patriots organization, I want to thank everyone who has contributed to the success of our team, both on and off the field.

After being awarded the Genesis Prize in June 2019, Robert Kraft launched the Foundation to Combat Antisemitism (FCAS), an organization dedicated to win the hearts and minds of Jews and non-Jews through powerful positive messaging and partnerships, motivating and equipping everyone to be defenders of and upstanders for the Jewish community. The Foundation focuses on raising awareness about antisemitism and engaging individuals to stand up to Jewish hate and all hate. FCAS utilizes unique and advanced technology in the Command Center to monitor conversations about antisemitism across 300 million online sources and create content in real time based on trending topics.

#STANDUPTOJEWISHHATE CAMPAIGN

On March 27, 2023 FCAS launched #StandUpToJewishHate, an innovative mass media campaign designed to encourage all Americans to stand up against hate and intolerance. The campaign introduced the Blue Square , as the universal symbol of solidarity against antisemitism. The Blue Square ad marked the launch of the campaign with its appearance on TV segments on CBS Mornings, NBC Today Show, The Voice, and The Kelly Clarkson Show. The Blue Square appeared on social media platforms, TV segments, and billboards all across the country, taking up only 2.4% of the screens it appeared on as a reminder that Jewish people make up 2.4% of the American population, yet, they are victims of 55% of all religious hate crimes in this country. As part of the campaign FCAS rolled out three powerful stories that showcase how antisemitism manifests today and the role that non-Jews can play in fighting hate and intolerance. The Kraft family has committed $25 million towards this effort and hopes to rally support among Jews and non-Jews alike to recognize antisemitism and standing up against hate.

In October 2022 and January 2023, FCAS aired two TV commercials during NFL games calling attention to the alarming rise of antisemitism and encouraging all Americans to use their voice to #StandUpToJewishHate and other forms of intolerance. FCAS has since partnered with over 2,000 organizations like the NBA and NASCAR to share the commercial and to continue the conversation.

Throughout the first phase of the campaign, the Blue Square spread across the nation, made headlines and gained new supporters every day:

- Robert Kraft led the March of the Living in Poland along with Rapper Meek Mill. The event is an annual march between the Auschwitz and Birkenau concentration camps in Poland that takes place on Yom HaShoah (Holocaust Remembrance Day) to honor and remember all victims of the Holocaust.
- After disturbing reports that a young man with autism had a swastika carved into his back, FCAS partnered with Jewish Nevada and the local ADL chapter to run billboards in Las Vegas that made clear “when jewish hate shows up, we stand up” and encouraged people to #StandUpToJewishHate.
- FCAS hosted the New England Patriots rookie class at the Command Center for a conversation about how antisemitism and hate appears online. Robert Kraft told the players about the importance of the #StandUpToJewishHate campaign and speaking out against hate.
- FCAS was named in the White House’s first ever National Strategy to Counter Antisemitism.

BRANDEIS PARTNERSHIP

FCAS formed a partnership with Brandeis University to combat the rise of antisemitism across the country and on college campuses. “The rise of antisemitism and hate targeting Jews across the country is a threat to the Jewish community’s survival and needs strong leadership to combat,” said Robert Kraft. “Through our Foundation to Combat Antisemitism, we are working to find innovative ways to educate and empower Jews and non-Jews to stand up to Jewish hate. Brandeis is the right partner for this important work, as its founding values are based in a commitment to create a better world.” The partnership is structured around three areas of action:

1. Brandeis will provide semester-based and year-long fellows to work and assist operations at FCAS.
2. Brandeis and FCAS will hold a convening role in engaging leaders in higher education to address antisemitism on college campuses through panels, conferences, workshops, and speaker series that will share latest research on antisemitism and college life.
3. Brandeis’ Hornstein (graduate) Jewish Professional Leadership Program will benefit by receiving new content on antisemitism to be introduced into its curriculum.

FROM THE COMMAND CENTER

FCAS is continuing to build out new capabilities in the Command Center, which monitors conversations related to antisemitism in real time from over 300 million data sources. In early 2023, FCAS launched “From the Command Center,” a weekly newsletter with analysis and trending topic on social media for all conversations related to antisemitism. This update helps inform community organizations who are aligned in FCAS’ mission to combat antisemitism as well as individuals who are looking to become more informed about the topic. Since its launch “From the Command Center” has attracted thousands of people who have signed up to receive and read the newsletter. To sign up for the newsletter visit fcas.org/newsletter.

Robert Kraft and Meek Mill in the March of the Living

FOUNDER ROBERT KRAFT FEATURED AT MAIN EVENTS

For the first time in 40 years, the NAACP National Convention returned to Boston and featured Mr. Kraft, Meek Mill, Professor Skip Gates and NAACP President Derrick Johnson for a keynote discussion entitled “Hate Has No Home Here,” moderated by Joy Taylor. The discussion focused on building bridges between Black and Jewish communities and the intersectionality of racial justice and the continued rise in hate crimes.

Mr. Kraft was also honored by the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum with the National Leadership Award on November 1, 2022, at its “What You Do Matters” Northeast Tribute Dinner. The Kraft family made an initial gift to help build the museum before it opened and continues to support the museum as it works to raise education and awareness regarding the Holocaust and modern day hatred of Jews. During his remarks, Mr. Kraft announced the family’s contribution to the #StandUpToJewishHate campaign that launched in March 2023.

Mr. Kraft was the keynote speaker at United Hatzalah’s fourth annual gala in New York on June 6th, 2023. United Hatzalah is a non-profit, volunteer organization that provides fast and free emergency medical first response services to all people in Israel regardless of race, religion, or national origin. Kraft was warmly welcomed to a sea of # pins in the crowd. He shared how his focus on fighting antisemitism stems from a commitment to helping underrepresented groups who need a voice. “I looked around at the fracture, at the divisiveness, at the hate, and felt like this country, that I still believe is the greatest country in the world, was beginning to look a lot like Germany in the 1930s,” said Kraft.

Bank of America hosted Mr. Kraft, and Filmmaker Ken Burns to a fireside chat with the bank’s Chairman and CEO Brian Moynihan about the #StandUpToJewishHate campaign and the severity of the rising antisemitism around the nation. The conversation was part of Bank of America’s Courageous Conversations sessions on race, ethnicity, and culture. Additionally, Bank of America announced a five year commitment to FCAS along with a $10 million donation to support the foundation’s work.
