Stalking and Intimate Partner Violence

Point When Stalking Occurs

Tjaden, P. & Thoennes, N. (1998). Stalking in America: Findings from the national violence against women survey (NCJ#169592). Washington, DC: National Institute of Justice Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Retrieved from https://www.ncjrs.gov/pdffiles/169592.pdf.

Intimate partner stalkers are more likely to:

- physically approach the victim
- be interfering, insulting, & threatening
- use weapons
- escalate behaviors quickly
- re-offend

Study of Women with Protective Orders

Women who were abused and stalked experienced significantly higher rates of the following than women who were abused but not stalked:

- * Verbal abuse, degradation, jealousy and control
- * Serious threats
- * Moderate and severe physical violence
- * Sexual violence and sexual assault
- * Threats to kill and threats with a weapon
- * Being beat up, attacks with a weapon and injury

Leaving an IP Stalking Relationship

Women were more than 3X more likely to attempt to terminate relationship when IP stalking was present -- a more powerful indicator than firearms and prior abuse history.

Victims of intimate partner stalking have more separation attempts than victims of IPV alone.

In 85% of attempted & 76% of completed intimate partner femicides, stalking occurred in the year prior to the attack.
