CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Concerning p̄contracte and degrees of Consanguinite.

Usurped Power of the See of Rome heretofore exercised ;

by Dissolution of Marriages on Pretence of Pre-contract ;

By Dispensations for Marriage between Cousins, &c.

Evils resulting therefrom :

Marriages, contracted by Persons not prohibited by God's Law, solemnized and consummated, shall not be dissolved for any Pre-contract not consummated.

No Marriage without the Levitical Degrees shall be impeached.

WHERAS heretofore the usurped power of the Bishop of Rome hath alwayes entangled and troubled the mere jurisdiction and legal power of this Realme of England, and also unquietid muche the subjectis of the same by his usurped power in them, as by making that unlauffull whiche by Goddis wourde is lauffull bothe in mariages and other thinges as herafre shall appere at more length ; and till nowe of late in our Souveraine Lordes tyme, whiche is otherwise by larning tawght than his predecessours in tymes past of longe tyme have ben, hath so contynued the same, wherof yet some sparkis be lefte whiche herafre might kindle a greater fyer and so remayning his power not to seme utterly extincte, Therefore it is thought mooste convenient to the Kinges Highnes his Lordis s̄puall and temporall with the Comons of his Realme assembled in this present plament that twoo thinges specially for this tyme be with diligence provided for, whereby many inconveniences hath ensued and many moo els mought ensue and followe : as where heretofore divers and many psonnes after longe contynuaunces together in matrimonye, without any allegation of either of the pties or anny other at their mariage whie the same matrimony should not be good juste and lauffull, and after the same matrimony solemnised and consūmate by carnall knowlege, and also some tyme fruite of children ensued of the same mariage, have nevertheless by an unjuste lawe of the Bishop of Rome, whiche is that uppon pretence of a former contracte made and not consūmate by carnall copulation, for profe wherof twoo witnes by that lawe were onely required, ben divorced and separate contrarie to Goddis lawe, and so the true matrimony bothe solemnised in the face of the Church and consūmate with bodily knowlege and confirmed also with the fruite of children had betwene them clerely frustrate and dissolved : Further also by reason of other prohibitions than Goddis lawe admitteth, for their lucre by that Courte invented, the dispensation wherof they alwaies reservid to them selfis, as in kynnerede or affinitie betwene cousyn germaynes and so to fourth and fourth degree carnall knowlege of anny of the same kynne or affinitie bifore in suche outwarde degrees which elys were lauffull and be not prohibited by Goddis lawe, and all bicause they wolde gett monney by it and kepe a reputation to their usurped jurisdiction ; whereby not onely muche discorde betwene lauffull married psonnes hath contrarie to Goddis ordenⁿce arrisen, muche debate and sute at the lawe with the wrongefull vexation and greate damage of the innocent partie hath ben procured, and many juste mariages brought in doubte and daunger of undoyng and also many tymes undoone and lauffull heires disherited, Wherof there had never els but for his vayne glorious usurpation ben moved any suche question, syns fredōme in them was geven us by Goddis lawe which ought to be most sure & certain, But that notwithstanding mariages have been brought into suche an uncertainty thereby that no mariage coulede be so surely knytt and bounden but it shulde lye in either of the parties power and arbitre, casting away the feare of God, by meanes and compasses to prove a precontracte a kynnerede an alliance or a carnall knowlege to defeate the same, and so undre the pretense of these allegations afore rehersed to lyve all the daies of their lyves in detestable adultery to thutter destruction of their owne soules and the provocations of the terrible wrath of God uppon the places where suche abominations were suffred and used : Be it therefore enacted by the King our Souveraine Lorde the Lordes s̄puall and temporall and the Cōmons in this p̄sent plament assembled and by auctoritie of the same, that from the firste day of the monneth of July next [ensueyng¹] in the yere of our Lorde God a thousande fyve hundred and forty, all and evy suche mariages, as within this churche of England shalbe contracted betwene laufful psonnes, as by this acte wee declare all psonnes to be lauffull that be not prohibited by Goddis lawe to mary, suche mariages being contracte and solemnised in the face of the churche and consūmate with bodily knowlege or frute of childerne or childe being had therin betwene the parties so married, shalbe by auctoritie of this present plament aforesaid demed judged and taken to be laufful good juste and indissoluble, notwithstanding any precontracte or precontractis of matrimony, not consūmate with bodily knowlege, whiche either of the psonnes so married or both shalhave made with anny other psonne or psonnes, bifore the tyme of contracting that mariage which is solemnised and consūmate or wherof suche frute is ensued or maye ensue as afore ; and notwithstanding any dispensation prescription lawe or other thinge graunted or confirmed by acte or otherwise : And that no reservation or prohibition, Goddis lawe except, shall trouble or impeche anny mariage without the Levitical degrees ; And that no pson of what estate degree or condition soever he or she be shall afre the (²) first day of the [said³] monneth of July aforesaid be admitted in any of the s̄puall Courtis within this the Kinges realme or anyhis Graces other landis and dominions to any proces plea or allegation contrarie to this foresaid acte.

AN ACTE for the Subsidie of the Temporaltie.

Evidence by Record, exhibited in Parliament, of the King's Title to the Crown of Scotland;

Homage to the Kings of England by the Kings of Scotland for that Realm and Crown;

Forfeiture thereof for Treason by Kings of Scotland against Kings of England; Title of Kings of England descended to K. Hen. VIII. Forbearance of asserting such Title, no Injury thereto;

Aggressions of the pretended King of Scotland;

Successful Warfare of K. Henry VIII. against the said King of Scots;

Necessity of the Crown being supported by the Body Politic of the People;

Decease of the said pretended King of Scotland, affording an Opportunity of asserting the King of England's Right to that Crown;

WEE the Kinges moste loving and obedient Subjectes, the Lordes s̄pual and temporall and the Commons in this p̄nt Parliament assembled, doo well knowe p̄ceyve and undrestande by the searche sight and examinac̄ōn of divers and soondrye olde auncient and autentique rolles patent̄ wrytinḡ and recordes, openlye and manifestlye exhibited and maturelye redde and debated in this p̄nt parliament, that the Kinḡ Ma^{ty} our moste naturall and dreade Sovereigne Lorde, hath good juste tittle (¹) and interest to the Crowne and Realme of Scotlande; That is to saie, Firste the moste noble progenitours of the Kinḡ Ma^{ty} Kinḡ of this Realme, from the firste instituiçōn and establishment of the Kingdome Crowne and Realme of Scotlande and long after, weere justlie and lawfullye the supreme and naturall Sovereigne Lordes of the saide Realme and Crowne of Scotlande, and had the subjection and obedience therof, in suche cace that the Kinḡ of Scotlande did to them homage fvice and fealtie for the saide Realme and Crowne of Scotlande, and the Isles and Membres of the same; and afterwarde for divers and soondrye greate crymes treasons and rebellions attempted doone and commytted by the Kinḡ of Scotlande unto the most noble progenitours of the Kinḡ Hieghnes, the same progenitours Kinges of this Realme justlye obeigned and had the immediate reall and proper Dominion of the saide Realme and Crowne of Scotlande; whose interestes rightes and titles of the saide progenitours of our saide Sovereigne Lorde, of in and to the saide Realme and Crowne of Scotlande is lawfullye descended vested and coome unto the Kinḡ Ma^{ty}; And albeit that the enterpryse and actuall exercyse of his Hieghnes saide tittle and right hath been spared and forborne, aswell by his Ma^{ty} as by the late noble King his Hieghnes father of famous memorye King Henry the vijth, in respecte of mariage and proxymitie of bloodde, and also of the mynorytie of the late King of Scotlande, Nephewe unto the Kinḡ Ma^{ty}; yet that surcesse and forbearing, ne any other thinḡ suffred by any of his Majesties moste noble progenitours, canne ne ought in any wyse to appaire prejudice or hurte the juste right tittle and interest of our saide Sovereigne Lorde, grounded so certainlie and surelie as it is by good auncient and autentique recordes and wrytinḡ, recognised and confirmed by soondrye patent̄ undre the greate Seall of Scotlande; Albeit the saide late pretended King of Scottes being but an Usurper of the Crowne and Realme of Scotlande, by the ayde and succour of the Subject̄ of the same, hath nowe of late divers and soondrye tymes moste cruellye and maliciouslye made and commytted soondrye invasions usurpac̄ōns incurses murders slaughters burninḡ spoyles robberyes and other notable hurt̄ and injuries, in and upon the Marches of this Realme of Englande against Scotlande, and upon the Kinḡ loving Subject̄ there dwelling and inhabyting, againste all honour reasone honestie leages and amytye heretofore made by the saide late pretended King to the Kinḡ Ma^{ty}, aswell by wryting undre his greate Seall confirmed by his othe, as by his tres ambassadoures oratoures and commissioners; And albeit the Kinḡ moste Royall Ma^{ty}, considering the saide late pretended King to be his nephew, used all reasonable waies and meanes to have reduced and brought him to honest condiçōns of peace and quietnes; yet nevertheles the saide late King of Scottes offring by faire dissimuling woordes to coome to reasone and honest condiçōns, did nevertheles still psist continewe and encrease in his wilfull and p̄verse erroures and attemptates, after suche sorte and fasshion that the Kinḡ Ma^{ty} might not of his princelie courage any longer beare or susteyne with his honor, but was constrained to use his Kinglie force for defence revengement and reformaçōn of the saide notable invasions incurses usurpac̄ōns wronḡ injuries and attemptates; and for that purpose at his inestimable chardges, not oonlie levied a greate armye aswell by sea as by lande, but also increased and enforced his Hieghnes garrisons, as well againste Scotlande as at Calais and Guisnes and other Marches of the Realme, with notable nombres of Souldiers and men of Warre; whiche men of Warre and Souldiers weere so wiselie prudentlie and politicquellie directed and instructed by his Royall Ma^{ty}, that (thanks be to Almightye God) his Hieghnes hath had and obeigned soondrye notable victoryes upon the saide Scottes, as the lyke hath not been seen in manye yerres, for divers of the nobilitie gentlemen and cōmonaltie of Scotlande (at soondrye late conflictes of Warre betwene them and the Englishe men) have been slaine and killed, and manie taken and remaine yet as prisoners to our saide Sovereigne Lorde; to the greate renowne fame and honour of his Ma^{ty} and the hole Realme and to the good suertie of the same; for the whiche moste princelie prudent and politicque doinḡ and [proceedinḡ] of our saide Sovereigne Lorde for our sureties and defences, Wee his saide humble and obedient Subject̄ doo reendre and give to his moste Royall Ma^{ty} our moste hartye and loving thankes: And forasmuche as emong other consideraçōns and respect̄ the civile and politicque bodies ought to have in all common welthes, they shoulde moste principallye and s̄peallie regarde studye and devyse for the confvaçōn and increase of the royall estate honour and dignitie and estimaçōn of theyre chefe heade and Sovereigne Lorde by whome they be staied and governed and for the prefvaçōn and suertie of his psone and of his succession, and with all theyre powers might and substaunce to resiste and stande againste all suche whiche by violence force fraude disceyte or otherwyse wolde attempte to decrease diminishe appaire or hurte the same, in bodie dignitie tittle or honour: Wee therefore the Kinḡ Ma^{ty} moste loving and obedient Subject̄ assembled in this p̄nt parliament, being his civile and politicque bodie of this Realme, considering that it hath pleased Almightye God by his Divine Providence to call to his mercye the (²) late pretended King of Scottes, by reason wherof the Kinḡ Ma^{ty} our moste dreade Sovereigne Lorde hath nowe at this p̄nt (by the infynite goodnes of God) a tyme apt and propyse for the recoverye of his saide right and tittle to the saide Crowne and Realme of Scotlande, and waying also the greate and inestimable costes and chardges that his Hieghnes hath hadde and susteyned sithen the beginning of his saide Warres with Scotlande, and muste still beare and susteyne, aswell for recovering of his saide tittle as for the continuance of his saide Warres for our defences againste the malice of Scotlande till they be reduced to honest and reasonable condiçōns, mynding to supporte and beare with our saide Sovereigne Lorde after our simple powers, somewhat toward̄ the allevyation of his saide greate and moste exceeding chardges and expences, Doo by our owne mutuall assent̄ and agreement̄ with one

It appeared in the Alphabetical Collection of Statutes printed under the Name of Rastall, so early as 1579; and, being afterwards inserted in the Collection of Statutes edited by Pulton in 1618, has been continued in subsequent Editions to the present Time. It is now printed from an Entry in a Register-Book of the Bishop of London, preserved in Saint Paul's Cathedral, Bonner A.D. 1539 to 1559, fo. lxxxix, immediately after an Entry of the Act of Parliament, to which it refers by the following Marginal Note: "Decretū interpoitū intuitu Actus predicti." CHAPTER XXV. (1)

AN ACTE concerning the Graunt of one entire Subsidie and two whole Fifteenes and Tenths granted by the Temporaltie.

WE the Kings Majesties most humble faithfull and obedient Subjects the Lords spirituall and temporall and the Commons in this present Parliament assembled, prudently calling to our remembrance, how long wee have enjoyed the speciall grace and blessing of God, before all other nations of the world, having continued and prospered now these many yeeres under so godly and vertuous a Prince, whose most excellent vertue and wisdom, besides other his innumerable benefits conferred to this Realme, have conserved us in tranquillitie and peace, even from the beginning of his reigne, untill now of late that his Highnesse hath bene compelled for God his friends and his owne causes to moove warre in one place and to defend in another against the ancient enemies of this Realme, as well the Frenchmen as the Scots; and also considering the infinite costes and charges which his Highnesse hath necessarily sustained both by Sea and by Land, for the suretie comfort and safeguard of us his natural and faithfull subjects against the maine force & violence of our said enemies, who against all honour and faith have attempted to make divers and sundry invasions spoiles burnings and depopulations in this his Majesties Realme of England and other his Highnesse Dominions; the force and malice whereof notwithstanding, wee the people of this his Realme have for the most part of us so lived under his Majesties sure protection, and do yet so live out of all feare and danger as if there were no warre at all, even as the small fishes of the Sea in the most tempestuous and stormie weather doe lie quietly under the rocke or banke side, and are not mooved with the surges of the water, nor stirred out of their quiet place, howsoever the winde bloweth; we cannot for our most bounden duties but knowledge and confesse our selves to have and enjoy under his Highnesse, and by his most gracious and godly regiment, all that ever wee have in this world, rendring unto his Majestie next God our most humble and immortal thanks with our most humble sute and lowly prayer on our knees that it may please the same to persever in studying and caring for us, who being left to ourselves are not able to continue one day in such sort as his Highnesse hath preserved us almost these fortie yeeres; And albeit we have nothing worthe wherewithall to recompence any part of his Majesties infinite goodnesse, sundrie wayes heretofore declared towards us, yet to shew ourselves mindfull of our most bounden duties towards his Majestie our most gracious and dread Sovereigne Lord, and likewise in consideration of his Majesties more than fatherly affection towards us his Graces poore subjects, hath not hitherto for the suretie and defence of us our wives and children either spared to imploy his most royall persone, or to consume his owne treasure and possessions, we have consulted together and determined, for a remembrance and declaration of our good willes and thankfull minds againe towards his Majestie, to beseech his Majestie most humbly to accept and graciously to receive at our hands the simple token or gift which we doe herewith present to his Majestie in writing freely with one assent granting the same, most humbly beseeching his Majestie to accept the same, as a poore token of our true and faithfull hearts towards him, as it pleased the great King Alexander to receive thankfully a cuppe of water of a poore man by the high way side: And that this our graunt heerein may bee ratified and confirmed by his Majesties royall assent, so to bee enacted and aucthorised by vertue of this present Parliament, as in such cases heretofore hath bene accustomed: And forasmuch as our habilitie doeth want, wee will pray daily to Almighty God to supply towards his Majestie for us, remaying during our lives his true faithfull and obedient subjects, ever ready with body and goods to serve the same from time to time, according to our most bounden duties: Wherefore Wee the sayde Lords and Commons doe by our mutuall assents and agreements, with one whole voyce and heartie good will, by the authoritie of this present Parliament, give and graunt to the Kings Highnesse, towards his foresaid great costes and inestimable charges, two whole Fifteenes and Tenths, to bee had payed taken and levied of the moveable goods cattals and other things usuall to such Fifteenes and Tenths to bee contributorie and chargeable within the Shires Cities Boroughes Townes and other places of this his Realme, in manner and forme afore time used; Except the summe of twelve thousand pound thereof fully to bee deducted, that is to say, sixe thousand pound of either of the sayde whole Fifteenes and Tenthes of the summe that a Fifteene and Tenth attaineth unto, in reliefe comfort and discharge of the poore Townes Cities and Boroughes of this his sayde Realme, wasted desolate or destroyed, or overgreatly impoverished, after such rate as was and hath afore this time bene had and made unto every Shire, and to be divided in such manner and forme as heeretofore for one whole Fifteene and Tenth was had and divided. And the sayde two whole Fifteenes and Tenths, the exceptions and deductions aforesayde thereupon deducted and allowed, to be payde in manner and forme following; that is to say, the First whole Fifteene and Tenth to bee payde to his Highnesse in the receipt of his Exchequer before the last day of June next comming; the second whole Fifteene and Tenth to be payde to his Highnesse at the receipt of his sayde Exchequer before the last day of June in the yeere of our Lord God that shall bee a thousand five hundredth fortie and seven.

AND bee it further enacted by the authoritie aforesaide, that the Knights elected and returned of and for the Shires within this Realme for this present Parliament, Citizens of Cities and Burgesses of Boroughes and Townes where Collectours have bene used to bee named and appointed for the collection of any Fifteenes and Tenthes before this time granted, shall name and appoint yeerly before the last day of Januarie next comming sufficient and able persons for the collection of the sayd Fifteenes and Tenthes, in every of the said Shires Cities Boroughes and Townes; the sayde persons then having landes tenements and other hereditaments in their owne right of the yeerly value of tenne pound
