WHERE the hole peace unyte rest and quyetnes of this realme and of the subje^te of the same stondesth and dependeth upon the certeynte and suertye of the successyon in the Imperyall Crowne of this Realme, And for establysshement therof the Kyng^e most Royall Majestie, for the intyer and hertye affeccyon that his Grace bereth to the welthe of this Realme and for the suretye and unyte of his lovyng subje^te of the same, hath specyally caused thys his most highe Court of plyament to be somoned; sythen the begynnyng wherof the Lord^e sp^uall and temporall and the Comons at this present pliamt assembled by good and mature delyba^oon have devysed concluded and by their mutuall assent^e agreed one bill conteynyng a notable and honorable acte and ordenaunce concnyng the same Succession, If it shall please the Kyng^e most Roiall Majestie at there moost humble intercessyon to put his moost g^reyous and royall assent to the same; by the whiche it is vehemently to be suspected that the sayd Lord Thomas falsely craftely and trayterously hath imagyned and compassed, that in case oure seid So^veign Lord shuld die wythout heyres of his bodye, whiche God defend, that then the sayd Lord Thomas by reason of maryage in so highe a blodde, and to one suche whiche p^rtendeth to be lafull doughter to the sayd Quene of Scott^e eldest suster of oure seid So^veign Lord, shuld aspyre by her to the Dignyte of the sayd Imperyall Crowne of this Realme, or at the lest makyng devisyon for the same by all lykelywod^e, havyng a fyrme hope and trust that the subje^te of this Realme inclyne and bere affeccyon to the sayd Lady Margarete beyng borne in this Realme, and not to the King of Scott^e her brother to whom this Realme hath nor ever hadd eny affec^oon, but wold resyst his attempt to the Crowne of this Realme to the uttermost of theyre powers; whiche contemptuous and trayterous acte of the said Lord Thomas soundyth and tendyth most highly to the Kyng^e dishonour, and to the great parell and bodeley harme of his most roiall pson, and to the playne and manyfest daunger of Interrup^oon of the said Acte made for the lymytacyon of the Kyng^e Successyon: In Consyderacyon wherof and for avoydyng of all doubte suspect^e and ambiguytes that may come and growe to this Realme by reason of the p^rmysse, and for spedy and due punysshement to be hadd of this most contemptuous and trayterous offence, comytted ayenst the Kyng^e Highnes and the Realme & to the parell of derogac^oon and interupcion of the said good and holsome acte of succession, and for example to offendours in suche cases, And also forasmoche as the said offence is done and comytted wythin the tyme of this present parlyament, and in the Kyng^e owen Courte and House, his Grace ther beyng for affayres of his plem^et, It may therefore please the Kyng^e Highnes, at the most humble in^rcession of the Lord^e sp^uall and temporall and the Comens in this present parliament assembled, that it may be enacted by auctoryte of the same, that the said offence shalbe adjudged and demyd Highe Treason, and that the said Lord Thomas Howard for his said offence shalbe attaynted of Highe Treason, and shall have and suffer suche paynes and execucion of deathe to all intent^e and purposes as in cases of highe treason.

CHAPTER XIV.

AN ACTE abolishing diṽsity in Opyinions.

WHERE the Kinges most excellent Majestie is by Gods lawe, supreme head ȳmediatly under him of this hole Church and Congregaṽn of Englande, intendinge the conservaṽn of the same Church and Congregaṽn in a true syncere and unyforme doctryne of Christe Religion, callinge also to his blisshed and most gracious remembraunce aswell the great and quyett assurance p̄sperous encrease and other innumerable cōmodityes whiche have ever ensued come and followed of concorde agreement and unyty in opynions, as also the manyfold pilles daungers and inconveniences wth have heretofore in many places and regions growen spronge and aysen of the diṽsityes of myndes and opynions especially of matters of Christen Religion; And therefore desiringe that suche an unyty myght and shulde be charitably established in all thinges touchinge and concerninge the same, as the same so beinge established myght chiefly be to the honour of Almyghtie God the verie Autor and founteyne of all true unytie and sincere concorde, and consequently redounde to the cōmon welth of this his Highnes most noble realme, and of all his lovinge subjecte and other resiantes and inhabitante of or in the same; Hathe therfore caused and comaunded this his most highe Courte of Parliament, for sundry and many urgent causes and consideraṽns to be at this tyme somoned, and also a Synode and Convocaṽn of all the Archbisshopps Bisshopps and other lerned men of the Clergie of this his Realme to be in like manner assembled; And forasmuche as in the saide parliament synode and convocaṽn there were certen articles matters and questions p̄poned and set forth touchinge Cristen Religion, that is to say; First, whether in the most blessed Sacrament of Thalter remayneth after the consecraṽn the substance of bread and [wynne¹] or no; Secondly, Whether it be necessary by Gods lawe that all men shoulde be cōmunycate withe bothe kindes or noe; Thirdly, whether Preeste that is to saye Men dedycate to God by Preesthood may by the lawe of God mary after or noe; Fourthly, whether Vowe of Chastitye or Widowedhood made to God advisedly by man or woman be by the lawe of God to be observed or noe; Fiftly, whether privat masses stonde with the lawe of God and be to be used and contynued in the Church and congregaṽn of Englande as thinges wherby good cristen people may and do receyve both godly consolaṽn and holosome benefytt or noe; Sixtly, whether auricular confession ys necessarie to be reteyned contynued used and frequented in the Church or noe; The Kinges most Royal Majestie most prudently ponderinge and consideringe that by occasion of variable and sundrie opinions and judgemente of the saide articles, great discorde and variaunce hathe arrisen aswell amongst the clergie of this his Realme, as amongst a great nombre of vulgar people his lovinge subjecte of the same, And beinge in a full hope and truste that a full and perfecte resoluṽn of the saide Articles shoulde make a p̄fecte concorde and unyty genally amongst all his lovinge and obedient subjecte; Of his most excellent goodnes not only cōmaunded that the saide Articles shoulde delibately and advisedly by his saide Archbisshopps Bisshopps and other lerned men of his Clergie be debated argued and reasoned, and their opinions therin to be understond declared and knowen, but also most graciously vouchsaved in his owne princely p̄son to discend and come into his saide highe Courte of Parliament and Counsaile, and there like a Prince of most highe Prudence and noe lesse lernynge opened and declared many thinge of highe lerning and great knowledge touchinge the said articles matters and questions, for an unytye to be had in the same; Whereupon, after a great and longe delibate and advised disputaṽn and consultaṽn had and made concerninge the saide articles, aswell by the consent of the Kinges Highnes as by thassent of the Lordes s̄p̄uall and temporall, and other lerned men of his Clergie in their Convocaṽn, and by the consent of the Cōmons in this p̄sent parliament assembled, it was and is fynally resolved accorded & agreed in manner and forme following, that is to say; First, that in the most blessed Sacrament of the Aulter, by the strenghe and efficacy of Christe myghtie worde, it beinge spoken by the prest, is p̄sent really, under the forme of bread and wyne, the naturall bodye and bloode of our Saviour Jesu Criste, conceyved of the Virgin Marie, and that after the consecraṽn there remayneth noe substance of bread or wyne, nor any other substance but the substance of Criste, God and man; Secondly, that Comunion in bothe kindes is not necessarie ad salutem by the lawe of God to all p̄sons; And that it is to be beleved and not doubted of, but that in the fleshe under forme of bread is the verie blode, and withe the blode under forme of wyne is the verie fleshe, aswell aparte as thoughe they were bothe together; CHAPTER XXIV.

The Possessions of Thospitall^e of S^t Johns of Hierusalem.

Adherence to the See of Rome by certain Subjects, Knights of Rhodes, or of St. John of Jerusalem, in England and Ireland.

THE Lordes s̄pual and temporall and the Cōmons in this present plament assembled, having credible knowledge that divers and sundry the Kinges subjectis called Knightes of [the¹] Rodes otherwise callid Knightis of Saint Johnes otherwise called Freers of the Religion of Saint John of Jerusalem in England, and of a like House being in Ireland, abiding in the parties of beyonde the See and having aswell out of this Realme as out of Irelaund and oftr the Kinges Dominions yerelye greate sōmes of Money for mayntenⁿce of their lyving^e, have unnaturally and contrarie to the duety of their alleageunces sustayned and maynteynid the usurped powre and auctoritie of the Bishop of Rome, lately used and practised within this Realme and other the Kinges Dominions, and have not onely adhered theymselves to the said Bishop being cōmon ennemye to the King our souvaine Lorde and to his Realme, untruely upholding knowleging and affirmyng maliciously and traiterously the same Bishop to be supreme and chef hed of Christes Church by Goddis holy wourde, intending thereby to subvert and overthrowe the good and godly lawes and statutes of this Realme their naturall Contrey made and grounded by auctoritie of Holy Church by the most excellent Wisedome polycye and goodnes of the Kinges Majesty with the hole assent and consent of the Realme for the abolishing expulsiō and utter extingting of the said usurped power and auctoritie, but also have diffamed and sclaudred aswell the Kinges Majesty as the noble men prelates and other the Kinges true and loving subjectis of this Realme for their good and godly proceding in that bihalf; have therefore deeply pondered and considered that, like as it is and was a mooste godly acte of the King^e mooste roiall Majesty and the said noble men prelatis and cōmons of this Realme utterly to expulse and abolishe not only from this Realme but also from other the Kinges Dominions the said usurped power and auctoritie of the Bishop of Rome, and also the hipocritike & superstiouse Religions within this Realme and in other the Kinges Dominions being his membres and adherentis having their original erection and foundation by the said usurped auctoritie, by expulsiō wherof Goddis holy Worde necessarie for increace of vertue and salvation of Ch̄ren soules is not onely purely and sincerely avauced and set furth, but also the extorte exactions [and²] inūmable sōmes of Money craftely exhausted out of this Realme and of other the Kinges Dominions by the Colo^r of the said usurped auctoritie is removed and taken away, to the inestimable benefite and cōmoditie of the Kinges loving subjectis; So like maner of wise it shulde be mooste daungerous to be suffred or p̄mitted within this Realme or in any other the Kinges Dominions any Religion being sparkis leaves or ympes of the said roote of iniquitie; Consideryng also that the Isle of [Rhodes³] whereby the said religion toke their olde name and foundation is surprised by the Turke, and that it were and is mucche better that the possessions in this Realme and in other the Kinges Dominions appertayning to the said religion shulde rather be employed and spent within this Realme and in other the Kinges Dominions for the defence and suertie of the same than conv̄ted to and amongst suche unnaturall subjectis whiche have declyned not only from their naturall duetye of obedience that they ought to beare unto the King their Souvaine Lorde, but also from the good lawes and statutis of this Realme their naturall Countrey, daily doing and attempting privily and craftely all that they can to subvert the good and godly Polycye, in the whiche thanckis be to God and to our mooste dradde Souvaine Lorde this Realme and other the Kyng^e Dominions nowe stande in; IN CONSIDERAC̄ON wherof the said Lordis s̄pual and temporall and the Comons in this p̄sent plament assembled mostē humbly besechin the Kinges mooste Roiall Majesty that it may be enacted by his Highnes and by thassent of the Lordis s̄pual and temporall and the Comons in this p̄sent plament assembled, that the corporation of the said Religion aswell within this Realme as within the Kinges Dominions and lande of Ireland, by whatsoever name or names they be founded incorporatid or knowen, shalbe utterly dissolved & voyde to all intentis and purposes; And that Sir Witm Weston Knyght nowe being Priour of the said Religion within this Realme of England shall not be named or callid from hensfurth Prio^r of Saint Johnes of Jerlm in England but shalbe callid by his propre name of Witm Weston Knight without farther addition towching the said Religion;
