In addition, NASD found that the firm, acting through the Glodeks, knew, or should have known, of "red flags" indicating sales-practice violations, including the firm's receipt of numerous customer complaints alleging material misrepresentations, its failure to disclose material information, its effecting of unauthorized transactions, and its failure to take sufficient supervisory steps in response to the "red flags." Spear, Leeds & Kellogg, L.P. (CRD #3466, New York, New York) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver, and Consent in which the firm was censured, fined $156,000, and required to revise its written supervisory procedures within 30 days to address deficiencies. Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it failed to display immediately customer limit orders in NASDAQ securities in its public quotation when each such order was at a price that would have improved the firm's bid or offer in each such security; or when the order was priced equal to the firm's bid or offer and the national best bid or offer in such security, and the size of the order represented more than a de minimis change in relation to the size associated with its bid or offer in each such security. NASD found that the firm, as a non-market maker, executed short-sale transactions on a riskless principal basis, and failed to make an affirmative determination prior to executing such transactions.

The findings stated that the firm, as a market maker in securities, without making reasonable efforts to avoid a locked or crossed market by executing transactions with all market makers whose quotations would be locked or crossed, entered bid or asked quotations in The NASDAQ Stock Market that caused a locked or crossed market condition to occur in each instance, and caused a locked or crossed market condition prior to the market opening by entering a bid (ask) quotation that locked or crossed another market maker's quotations without immediately thereafter sending through SelectNet, to the market maker(s) whose quotes it locked or crossed, a Trade-or-Move message that was at the receiving market maker's quoted price and whose aggregate size was at least 5,000 shares. In addition, NASD found that the firm received an order to buy or sell through SelectNet for a normal unit of trading greater than its published quotation size at the time of receipt of such order; executed a transaction in an amount of shares less than the size of the order; and, after such execution, failed to immediately display a revised quotation at a price that was inferior to its previous published quotation. Furthermore, the findings stated that the firm failed to execute the orders upon presentment and thereby failed to honor its published quotation and effected transactions in securities listed on The NASDAQ Stock Market while a trading halt was in effect with respect to such securities. In addition, NASD determined that the firm's supervisory system did not provide for supervision reasonably designed to achieve compliance with respect to applicable securities laws and regulations concerning the designation of supervisory personnel, ACT compliance, the duty of best execution, limit order protection, order handling rules, one percent rule, registration of traders and supervisors, transaction reporting, Small Order Execution System (SOES), record keeping, locked/crossed markets, anti-competitive practices, information barriers, short sales, firm quote compliance, and the obligation to regularly and rigorously assess the quality of competing markets. The findings also stated that the firm's advertising and sales literature mischaracterized an SEC study and misleadingly suggested that public customers who executed trades through the firm would receive better prices than through most other market participants. tions, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it effected transactions for public customers of various municipal bonds on a principal basis at prices that were not fair and reasonable without taking into consideration all relevant factors. NASD also found that the firm failed to establish, maintain, and enforce written supervisory procedures reasonably designed to ensure compliance with the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board (MSRB) Rule concerning municipal markups. The findings also stated that the firm was a party to a locked or crossed market condition prior to the market opening, received a Trade-or-Move message in each instance through SelectNet, and, within 30 seconds of receiving such messages, failed to fill the incoming Trade-or-Move message for the full size of the message or move its bid down (offer up) by a quotation increment that would have unlocked or uncrossed that market. Complaints Filed

The following complaints were issued by NASD. Issuance of a disciplinary complaint represents the initiation of a formal proceeding by NASD in which findings as to the allegations in the complaint have not been made, and does not represent a decision as to any of the allegations contained in the complaint. Because these complaints are unadjudicated, you may wish to contact the respondents before drawing any conclusions regarding the allegations in the complaint.

Jeffrey Clyde Adams (CRD #2833013, Registered Representative, Lake Mary, Florida) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he effected the purchase of securities in the accounts of public customers without the prior authorization of the customers. The complaint also alleges that Adams created and transmitted falsified and unauthorized requests to his member firm's clearing firm for $18,016 to be transferred from his member firm's error account and credited to the accounts of public customers for the incurred losses that resulted from Adams' unauthorized trades in their accounts. In addition, the complaint alleges that Adams exercised discretion in effecting the sale and purchase of stocks in the account of a public customer without obtaining the discretionary authority in writing from the customer, and without having the account accepted as a discretionary account by his member firm. (NASD Case #C07020058)

Michael Baldo a/k/a Miguel Baldo Lozano (CRD #2620455, Registered Representative, Long Island City, New York) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he engaged in unauthorized transactions in the accounts of public customers without their prior knowledge, authorization, or consent. (NASD Case #C10020062)

Mathieu Siddhartha Chamberlain (CRD #2292343, Registered Representative, New York, New York) was named a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he opened an account at his member firm in the name of a public customer and executed the purchase of stocks without the customer's prior knowledge, authorization, or consent. The complaint also alleges that Chamberlain executed discretion in the accounts of public customers pursuant to a customer's verbal authorization without consulting the customer before each transaction, without having obtained prior written authorization from the customer, and without having obtained his member firm's prior written acceptance of the account as discretionary. In addition, the complaint alleges that Chamberlain exceeded his authority in the accounts of public customers and executed the sale of stocks without the customers' knowledge, authorization, or consent. (NASD Case #C10020067)

Cybervest Securities, Inc. (CRD #40767, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida), William Pang Chien (CRD #2251029, Registered Principal, Plantation, Florida), Michael Chien (CRD #3066470, Registered Principal, Sunrise, Florida), and Scott Keith Kaplan (CRD #2908394, Registered Representative, Brooklyn, New York) were named as respondents in an NASD complaint alleging that the firm, William Chien, Michael Chien, and Kaplan engaged in an unregistered distribution of common stock. The complaint also alleges that the firm, acting through the Chiens, by use of the instrumentalities of interstate commerce or the mails, intentionally or recklessly employed devices to defraud public customers by making untrue statements of material facts or omitting to state material facts necessary to make the statements, in light of the circumstances in which they were made, not misleading. Specifically, the complaint alleges that the firm, at the direction of the Chiens, provided to public customers an overview and/or private placement memorandum that contained material misrepresentations and omissions of facts.

In addition, the complaint alleges that Kaplan, in connection with the sale of common stock, by use of the instrumentalities of interstate commerce or the mails, intentionally or recklessly employed devices to defraud public customers by making untrue statements of material facts or omitting to state material facts necessary to make the statements, in light of the circumstances in which they were made, not misleading. Specifically, the complaint alleges that Kaplan told public customers that they were directly or indirectly buying shares of NASDAQ; that NASDAQ was going to engage in an IPO within a short period of time; and failed to disclose the conflicts of interest between the common stock and his member firm, the lack of secondary market for the stock, the limited operating history of many of the target companies, and specific industry risk factors for the target companies. In addition, the complaint alleges that Kaplan made price predictions to customers without a reasonable basis. Moreover, the complaint alleges that Michael Chien failed to properly qualify and register as a general principal, and the firm and William Chien delegated to Michael Chien supervisory responsibilities for a branch office when he was not qualified or registered as a general principal.

Furthermore, the complaint alleges that the firm allowed Kaplan to conduct a securities business that required registration when he was not registered and permitted a statutorily disqualified individual to associate with the firm and work in a branch office and the firm's main office. The complaint also alleges that the firm, acting through William Chien, failed to establish, maintain, and enforce written supervisory procedures and systems to supervise the activities of registered representatives and associated persons reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws, regulations, and NASD rules. In addition, the complaint alleges that Michael Chien became aware of "red flags" indicating that salespersons might have been misrepresenting a stock offering and failed to take adequate steps to investigate whether salespersons were engaging in sales practice violations. The complaint also alleges that the firm allowed a branch office supervisor to fail to take steps to supervise the sales practices of registered persons at the branch office. Furthermore, the complaint alleges that the Chiens failed to maintain a file or records of Web sites for the firm and the common stock that included the persons who prepared and approved of their use, the dates the Web sites were activated, and the dates the Web sites were materially revised. (NASD Case #CAF020024)

Stephen Jay Drescher (CRD #2619465, Registered Principal, Remsenburg, New York) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he agreed in advance to artificially manipulate the market price and demand for securities involved in IPOs as soon as aftermarket trading began by engaging in unlawful schemes designed to allow others, including other brokerage firms, and his member firm to profit from aftermarket sales of securities in the IPOs while concealing their beneficial ownership and control over substantial quantities of such securities. The complaint also alleges that Drescher and others entered into secret, undisclosed arrangements, including sham "lock-up" agreements and undisclosed agreements, to purchase securities from bridge lenders and other insiders affiliated with the issuers, which allowed his member firm and others to obtain substantial quantities of securities at below-market prices once aftermarket trading began.

The complaint further alleges that Drescher and his co-conspirators, directly or indirectly, by the use of any means or instrumentalities of interstate commerce or the mails, or of any facility of any national securities exchange, employed artifices, devices, or schemes to defraud; made untrue statements of material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and engaged in acts, practices, or courses of business that operated or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon persons in connection with the purchase of securities. Moreover, the complaint alleges that Drescher and others unlawfully, willfully, and knowingly devised and intended to devise a scheme and artifice to defraud; and, to obtain money and property by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations, and promises, would and did transmit by means of wire communication in interstate and foreign commerce, signs, signals, and sounds. (NASD Case #CAF020029)

Todd Mitchell Eberhard (CRD #1636538, Registered Principal, New York, New York) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he settled customer complaints away from his member firms without the knowledge and consent of the firms and failed to report settlements in excess of $15,000 to his member firm. The complaint also alleges that Eberhard included improper confidentiality provisions in settlement agreements with public customers that effectively prohibited the customers from disclosing the underlying facts of their complaints and the settlement terms to NASD. The complaint further alleges that Eberhard willfully failed to disclose and/or misrepresent, amend, and timely amend his Forms U-4 to disclose material information. In addition, the complaint alleges that Eberhard effected transactions in the accounts of public customers without their prior knowledge, authorization, or consent. The complaint further alleges that Eberhard exercised discretion in the accounts of public customers without having written agreements with the customers authorizing Eberhard to exercise discretion and without having obtained his member firm's prior written acceptance of the accounts as discretionary.

The NASD complaint also alleges that Eberhard, in connection with the purchase, sale, and/or offer of mutual fund shares, directly or indirectly, by the use of any means or instrumentalities of interstate commerce or the mails, or of any facility of any national securities exchange, employed artifices, devices, or schemes to defraud; made untrue statements of material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; engaged in acts, practices, or courses of business that operated or would operate as a fraud or deceit; and/or effected transactions in, or induced the purchase or sale of securities by means of manipulative, deceptive, or other fraudulent devices or contrivances. Moreover, the complaint alleges that Eberhard failed to disclose material information to public customers in connection with the purchase and sales of mutual funds, purchased mutual fund shares that deprived the customers of volume discounts available, and/or deprived the customers of the lower and shorter-term contingent deferred sales charges that had the effect of increasing Eberhard's commission revenue. The complaint also alleges that Eberhard employed a pattern of short-term trading of mutual funds and effected transactions in the accounts of public customers without having reasonable grounds for believing the transactions were suitable for the customers on the basis of their financial situations and needs. Furthermore, the complaint alleges that Eberhard intentionally created false account statements with inflated valuations to induce a public customer to maintain accounts with him. In addition, the complaint alleges that Eberhard provided false, misleading and/or evasive testimony during an on-the-record interview with NASD. (NASD Case #C10020072)

Theodora Kenneybrew (CRD #2660317, Registered Representative, Chino, California) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that she received $75,474.73 in checks for investment purposes, failed and neglected to invest the funds as instructed, and, instead, without the knowledge or consent of the customers, endorsed and deposited the checks into a bank account over which she had control and used the funds for her own personal benefit or for some purpose other than the benefit of the customers. The complaint also alleges that Kenneybrew, without her member firm's knowledge or consent, authored and signed, under the name of a fictitious person (a purported firm supervisor), a letter on firm letterhead through which she misrepresented to a public customer that a back office error had resulted in her deposit being credited to another customer's account and that the error was being corrected. In addition, the complaint alleges that Kenneybrew misrepresented that the customer's next monthly statement would accurately reflect the deposit with interest. (NASD Case #C02020041)

Jon Kwan Lee (CRD #2538075, Registered Principal, Bayside, New York) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he created and supported a procedure at his member firm to improperly delay customers' ability to transfer their securities holdings or monies to another broker/dealer via the Automated Account Transfer Service (ACATS) process. Specifically, the complaint alleges that Lee directed the change of customer account numbers and the transfer of securities positions and money balances into the newly created accounts, without customer authorization for the purpose of delaying customer ACATS requests. (NASD Case #C3A020032)

Jerry Stephen Lund (CRD #2201043, Registered Representative, Longmont, Colorado) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he caused the execution of sell transactions in the account of public customers when he knew, or should have known, that the transactions were unauthorized in that he knew, or should have known, that his authorization to effect transactions in the customers' accounts had been revoked, and that the transactions were inconsistent with the stated intentions of the customers. (NASD Case #C3A020036)

Thomas Michael Rossi (CRD #2333282, Registered Representative, Bayside, New York) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he entered unauthorized trades in the accounts of public customers. In addition, the complaint alleges that Rossi failed to preserve the books and records of his member firm in a readily accessible place pursuant to SEC Rule 17a-4, and failed to respond to NASD requests to appear for an on-the-record interview. (NASD Case #C3A020031)

NASD Fines and Suspends Two CSFB Execs for Failing to Prevent IPO Profit Sharing Paybacks

NASD fined and suspended two Credit Suisse First Boston (CSFB) executives for failing to supervise and prevent the firm from receiving excessive commissions in exchange for allocations of “hot” IPOs. J. Anthony Ehinger, Global Head of Equity Sales, and George W. Coleman, the firm’s Institutional Listed Sales Trading Head, were fined $200,000 each, and both were suspended for 60 days—30 days in all capacities and 30 days as supervisors.

This case is related to the January 2002 enforcement actions in which NASD and the SEC fined CSFB $100 million for extracting tens of millions of dollars from customers in inflated commissions that amounted to a “profit sharing” arrangement for allocations of “hot” IPOs (www.nasdr.com/news/pr2002/release_02_005.html). NASD determined that CSFB’s IPO profit sharing practice was widespread, affecting more than 300 accounts serviced by the firm’s Institutional Sales Trading Desk, its Private Client Services (PCS) Group and its PCS Technology Group. Ehinger supervised all three units and Coleman, who reported to Ehinger, supervised the Institutional Listed Sales Trading Desk.

Separately, NASD also suspended four former CSFB employees for one year and fined them $30,000 each for failing to provide NASD with timely testimony in this matter. They are Scott M. Brown, Richard Scott Bushley, Michael S. Grunwald, and John E. Schmidt. All of these individuals were employed in the firm’s PCS Technology Group in San Francisco.

In this action against Ehinger and Coleman, NASD found that the departments under their supervision executed thousands of transactions with excessive commissions, influenced CSFB’s IPO allocations to customers who paid excessive commissions, and developed reports tracking both the amount of commissions paid by customers and as well as their IPO profits. Ehinger and Coleman created a tracking document they called the New Issue Performance Report (NIPR) to track the commissions paid by certain accounts, and the profit that each such account would have made if it sold its IPO shares on certain dates. Using this report, Ehinger and Coleman and some of their subordinates encouraged customers to increase their commission payments if they believed the customers’ IPO profits were too high in relation to the commissions paid to the firm. Ehinger and Coleman both discussed with their subordinates their goal to have certain accounts pay commissions amounting to as much as one-third of their profits. They also discussed ratios of profits to commissions with CSFB’s Syndicate Desk in connection with efforts to increase commission revenue and to influence IPO allocation decisions.

Although Ehinger and Coleman communicated with CSFB’s Legal and Compliance Department about whether, in general, high commissions could be accepted by CSFB, Legal and Compliance was not informed of the magnitude and scope of excessive commission rates being paid to the firm, or the existence of the NIPR. While Ehinger’s and Coleman’s contacts with the department are a mitigating factor, those contacts were insufficient to discharge their supervisory responsibilities.

In settling these matters, all respondents neither admitted nor denied the allegations.

NASD acknowledges the assistance and cooperation of the SEC’s Northeast Regional Office in this matter.
