

PROXY VOTING GUIDELINES: 2021

OVERVIEW

First Affirmative recognizes that socially and environmentally conscious investors have dual objectives. In addition to economic gain, First Affirmative clients are concerned with good corporate governance, the ethical behavior of corporations, and the impact of corporate actions on a healthy society and the natural environment that supports it. First Affirmative believes that companies implementing best practices with regard to social, environmental and corporate governance (ESG) issues enhance their ability to maximize shareholder value. We also believe that companies that take actions contrary to sound best practices with regard to ESG issues may contribute to systematic risks and associated costs that can adversely impact our clients' portfolio performance.

First Affirmative has therefore developed Proxy Voting Guidelines ("the Guidelines") to 1) support the implementation of best corporate practices that are grounded in ESG principles and 2) discourage corporate behavior that may result in financial gain for a company by the improper transfer of cost and risk to the detriment of society, the broad economy, and our client portfolios.

These Guidelines provide an overview of how ISS administers proxy votes on behalf of First Affirmative clients. As they are guidelines, not absolute instructions, there may be instances when the final vote cast on a particular issue varies from the Guidelines due to judgments made by First Affirmative after thorough examination of the merits of the proposal and consideration of company-specific information.

For accounts where the client has authorized First Affirmative Financial Network to vote proxies, First Affirmative contracts with Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS), a governance analysis and proxy voting firm, to vote ballots in accordance with these guidelines for all securities in which First Affirmative clients have a material interest. For the purposes of proxy voting, material interest is defined as 250 shares or more held collectively by all First Affirmative voting clients of record at custodian Folio Institutional and for all such authorized voting shares held at custodian Charles Schwab Institutional. ISS provides First Affirmative with proxy analysis and voting recommendations, vote execution services, and reports indicating how individual votes have been cast. If First Affirmative determines that it may have a conflict of interest regarding a particular security, the ISS' recommendations will apply for that meeting.

CAUTION: NON-U.S. COMPANIES

Although the following Guidelines generally reflect the principles applied to management and shareholder proposals at both U.S. and non-U.S. companies, we note that specific votes may vary for companies domiciled outside of the United States. Many of the basic governance concepts and social objectives transcend national boundaries, but differences in corporate governance standards, shareholder rights, and legal restrictions necessitate a more customized approach to voting in non-U.S. markets. In many countries, the requirements for filing shareholder resolutions are prohibitive, resulting in a much lower number of shareholder proposals. Differences in compensation practices, board structures, and capital structures can necessitate a customized approach to evaluating proposals in different countries.

Shareholders are sometimes required to approve certain management resolutions that do not require shareholder approval in the U.S. Mechanisms such as restricted voting rights, “share-blocking,” a mechanism that requires investors who intend to vote their shares to surrender the right to dispose of their shares during the blocking period, and requirements to be represented in person at meetings complicate the voting process. Finally, lower levels of disclosure in non-U.S. markets often make it difficult to apply the same policy that would apply to U.S. companies. In instances where companies fail to provide sufficient information to make a complete evaluation of a proposal, First Affirmative will abstain from voting on that proposal.

THE GUIDELINES

First Affirmative updates these Guidelines annually to take into account new social issues and the latest trends in corporate governance. The Guidelines are divided into two categories:

For shareholder proposals that do not have specific direction outlined in these Guidelines, First Affirmative will review each proposal on a case-by-case basis.

MANAGEMENT PROPOSALS

DIRECTOR-RELATED ISSUES

Including Director Elections, Classified Boards, Majority Voting, Cumulative Voting, and Board Size

As the board has a fiduciary responsibility to shareholders and other stakeholders to provide effective corporate governance and make strategic policy decisions, director elections is one of the most important voting decisions made by shareholders. Board composition should reflect the diversity of thought and perspective necessary for long-term focused oversight of the Company's policies, practices and products that includes due consideration of externalized social and environmental costs that may result. To encourage board nomination policies and oversight practices that meet our criteria:

- We oppose slates of director nominees that are not comprised of a significant majority of independent directors.
- We oppose inside and/or affiliated directors where more than one-third of the members are not independent.
- We withhold votes from non-independent directors who sit on key board committees.
- We withhold votes for members of the Nomination Committee when the board lacks gender diversity, defined as at least 30% women directors.
- We withhold votes for members of the Nomination Committee when the board lacks racial diversity, defined as at least one director of color.
- We withhold votes for members of the Compensation Committee if we vote against the annual "say on pay" proposal.
- We oppose the election of directors who serve on the compensation committee who also serve as CEO of any public company.
- We oppose the election of directors who have failed to attend a minimum of 75% of board meetings held during the year, unless there is a valid reason for the absence.
- We oppose the election of directors who serve as a named executive officer of any public company while serving on more than two other public company boards. This clause does not apply at the public company where the director is a named executive officer.
- We oppose the election of directors who serve on more than three other public company boards.
- We oppose directors who fail to adequately respond to shareholder resolutions that receive majority shareholder support.

- We support management proposals to declassify the board and adopt majority voting, with a plurality carve-out for contested elections.
- We oppose efforts to classify the board or eliminate cumulative voting.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals that seek to change the size or range of the board.
- First Affirmative supports management proposals to fix the size of the board at a specific number. We oppose management proposals that give management the ability to alter the size of the board without shareholder approval.
- We support management proposals to adopt majority voting unless they are poorly constructed, such as applying majority voting to both contested and uncontested elections.
- We oppose a director who is also the CEO of a company where a serious and material restatement has occurred after the CEO had previously certified the pre-restatement financial statements.
- We oppose the election of directors if the board lacks accountability and oversight, coupled with sustained poor performance relative to peers.
- We will oppose the election of directors responsible for the oversight of climate risk at fossil fuel companies and companies heavily dependent on fossil fuels if the company has not established a net zero emissions goal, to be achieved by 2050, the level of ambition set by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change to hold global warming to 1.5° Celsius and avoid some of the worst impacts of climate change.

AUDITORS

Annual election of the outside accountants is standard practice. While we recognize that the company is in the best position to evaluate the competence of its outside accountants, we believe that outside accountants must ultimately be accountable to shareholders. First Affirmative will oppose the ratification of an auditor in cases where non-audit fees represent more than 25% of the total fees paid to that auditor in the previous year or the auditor requires the company to sign an arbitration agreement.

TAKEOVER DEFENSES

As owners of the company, shareholders should be given the opportunity to decide on the merits of takeover offers. Further, takeover devices can be used to entrench a board that is unresponsive to shareholders on both governance and corporate social responsibility issues. However, we recognize that there are certain instances when these provisions can be protective of shareholder rights. Specifically:

- We oppose eliminating or reducing the supermajority voting threshold if it would enhance the rights of a controlling or significant shareholder (generally 30% or greater) to the detriment of minority shareholders.
- We support Directors and Officers liability and indemnification provisions where the changes are being made to conform with state law.

MISCELLANEOUS GOVERNANCE PROVISIONS

Including Confidential Voting, Adjourn Meeting, and Bundled Proposals

We evaluate proposals that address governance issues not specifically included above on a case-by-case basis, taking into account their impact on shareholder rights.

CAPITAL STRUCTURES

Including the Issuance of Additional Shares of Authorized Stock, Stock Splits and Reverse Stock Splits, Blank Check Preferred Stock, Dual-Class Stock, Debt Restructurings, and Share Repurchase Plans

- We support a one-share, one-vote policy, and oppose mechanisms that skew voting rights.
- We support capital requests that provide companies with adequate financing flexibility while protecting shareholders from excessive dilution of their economic and voting interests.
- Proposals to increase common stock are evaluated on a case-by-case basis, taking into account the size and purpose of the increase, the company's need for additional shares, and the company's past use of share authorizations.
- We vote case-by-case on share repurchase programs.

EXECUTIVE AND DIRECTOR COMPENSATION

Including "Say on Pay" proposals, Stock-Based Incentive Plans, Employee Stock Purchase Plans, Outside Director Option Plans, and Cash and Cash and Stock Based Awards

Although shareholder action such as "Say-on-Pay" resolution campaigns was intended to reign in excessive executive compensation, executive compensation remains a sensitive and visible corporate governance issue. Mainstream evaluation of executive pay by corporations and investors is focused on "pay for performance" metrics with heavy emphasis on comparison to self-selected peers and relatively short time periods. As You Sow conducts an annual analysis, The 100 Most Overpaid CEOs, that highlights the limitations of current analytical approaches and the consequences of our over reliance on narrowly focused performance metrics. Say on Pay votes also fail to address related issues such as gender inequality in executive pay, extreme pay disparities within companies, and growing income inequality.

Until alternative research is readily available, we continue to rely on existing quantitative methods for evaluation along with qualitative judgment to make our voting decisions, but the thresholds we have set are intended to support only those companies with exemplary compensation practices based on the metrics provided by ISS and informed by As You Sow and other executive compensation research.

First Affirmative will oppose Management Say-on-Pay (MSOP) proposals if:

- There is a misalignment between CEO pay and long-term company performance; or
- The company maintains problematic pay practices without clear rationale; or

- CEO pay is excessive based on evaluation of peer and named executive officer compensation and median household income.
- The board exhibits a significant level of poor communication and responsiveness to shareholder concerns.

Executive and director compensation proposals are evaluated on a case-by-case basis taking into account cost/dilution levels and specific plan features. For example, we oppose proposals that allow for the re-pricing of stock options without shareholder approval. In addition, any recent controversies surrounding a company's pay practices are also factored into the analysis of compensation proposals.

- We oppose such proposals when compensation plans are poorly designed, implemented or managed; and where there is insufficient or unclear disclosure regarding the overall compensation structure and/or the company engages in other egregious compensation practices.
- We vote case-by-case on incentive plans after assessing the company's entire compensation program and determining whether such plans appropriately tie executive compensation to company performance.
- We generally support Employee Stock Purchase Plans (ESPP) because they encourage savings and investment and allow employees to become shareholders in the company.
- We evaluate and vote case-by-case on incentive stock plans based on a quantitative analysis of the plan's cost compared with the business's operating metrics.
- We oppose plans that allow for egregious compensation practices such as option re-pricing.
- Management requests for option exchanges or re-pricings are analyzed on a case-by-case basis, and generally will only be supported if they exclude executive officers and directors, result in an equal or lesser value than the options being replaced, and contain features designed to enhance employee retention, such as extended vesting periods. Because shareholders do not have the ability to re-price or exchange their investment during stock price declines, any requests to re-price stock options should be backed by a compelling shareholder value argument and should be subject to a separate shareholder vote.
- Proposals requesting shareholders to ratify executive compensation and related disclosures are voted on a case-by-case basis taking into account compensation and performance at the company relative to peers.

MERGERS AND CORPORATE RESTRUCTURINGS

Mergers, leveraged buyouts, acquisitions, spin-offs, re-incorporations, tax inversions, and other corporate restructuring plans are evaluated on a case-by-case basis, given the potential for significant impacts on shareholder value and on shareholders' economic interests. In addition, these corporate actions can have important effects on a company's workforce and community stakeholders, including but not limited to job loss, community lending, equal opportunity, and environmental impacts. Advisory votes on "Golden Parachutes" in an acquisition, merger, consolidation, or proposed sale will be voted case-by-case, with due consideration given to inappropriate windfalls and inappropriate coverage of tax liabilities for executive officers.

EXCLUSIVE FORUM PROVISIONS

First Affirmative believes that charter or bylaw provisions limiting a shareholder's choice of legal venue are not in the best interests of shareholders. Such clauses may effectively discourage the use of shareholder derivative claims by increasing their associated costs and making them more difficult to pursue.

- We oppose any bylaw or charter amendment seeking to adopt an exclusive forum provision.
- In the event a board seeks shareholder approval of a forum selection clause pursuant to a bundled bylaw amendment rather than as a separate proposal, we weigh the importance of the other bundled provisions and vote on a case-by-case basis on such proposals.

MUTUAL FUND PROXIES

Including Election of Trustees, Investment Advisory Agreements, and Distribution Agreements

There are a number of proposals that are specific to mutual fund proxies. We evaluate these proposals on a case-by-case basis in conjunction with recent trends and best practices at other mutual fund companies.

- We support proposals that seek to establish an independent chair of the board of directors or trustees. ISS will determine whether board members, including the board chair, are in fact "independent."

SHAREHOLDER PROPOSALS

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Including Board Accountability Takeover Defenses, and Executive Compensation

Each year shareholders or their advocates file numerous proposals that focus on key issues regarding corporate governance and executive compensation. We support the adoption of best corporate practices that are grounded in ESG principles. We generally:

- Support proposals that seek to improve a board's accountability to its shareholders and other stakeholders.

- We support proposals allowing shareholders to be reimbursed for solicitation expenses including legal fees when proposal receives approval by majority votes cast.
- We vote case-by-case on CEO succession policy.
- We vote case-by-case on proxy access proposals where adoption of this provision allows for improved shareholder rights and ensures that shareholders who maintain a long-term interest in the target company have an ability to nominate candidates for the board.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals requiring senior executives to hold company shares until retirement.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals requesting the nomination of an employee representative to the board.

TAKE-OVER DEFENSES

- We support proposals to declassify the board.
- We support proposals providing for cumulative voting.

- We vote case-by-case on proposals seeking a shareholder vote on Severance or Supplemental Executive Retirement Plan (SERP) payments.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals that will alter compensation practices, establish stock holding/retention requirements, establish pay caps, or abolish stock options.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals seeking to limit the term of executive employment agreements, limit tax gross-ups or consider internal pay equity in setting CEO pay.
- We support proposals to eliminate or require shareholder approval of death benefits (“golden coffins”), which provide for payments and/or benefits to an executive’s beneficiaries following death.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals to adopt a policy to recoup unearned executive bonuses or incentive pay when performance targets have not been met as a result of a financial restatement.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals to establish a “pay-for-superior-performance” standard for executive pay—we support these proposals when CEO or executive pay is excessive and it is unclear how pay is linked to meaningful performance targets.
- We vote case-by-case on proposals to prohibit executives from selling stock during buy-back periods or to adopt policies to prevent abuses of pre-arranged stock sale plans.
- We oppose proposals seeking to impose, or vote on, specific terms of a SERP, but support proposals requesting better or more specific disclosure of executive pension benefits.
- We support proposals to limit hedging or prohibit executives from hedging the value of their stock.
- We support proposals calling for linkage of executive pay to non-financial factors including performance against social and environmental goals, customer/employee satisfaction, corporate downsizing, community involvement, human rights, or predatory lending.

- We vote case-by-case on other proposals seeking greater disclosure of compensation.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY ISSUES

Including consumer issues, corporate accountability, diversity issues, environment, affordable healthcare, global labor practices, and military involvement

Social responsibility proposals are receiving higher levels of support as institutional investors recognize that such proposals have tangible connections to shareholder value. In our view, companies that embrace corporate social responsibility best practices are better positioned for long-term success.

- We believe that corporations should be accountable and transparent to their shareholders and stakeholders. We generally support proposals that seek disclosure of or enhancement to a company's sustainability policies and practices, including workplace practices, human rights, environmental performance, and community impact.
- We review and vote case-by-case on proposals that request that the company cease certain actions that the proponent believes are harmful to particular populations or environments, taking into account the company's legal and ethical obligations, its ability to remain profitable, and any potential negative publicity or reputational risk if the company fails to honor the request.
