What does the course involve?

Photography at A Level provides students with opportunities to develop personal responses to ideas, observations, experiences, environments and cultures in practical, critical and contextual forms.

The A Level Photography course structure requires students to develop their ability to show a range of skills. These include:

- an interest and enthusiasm for photography
- an ability to be analytical and reflective about renowned photographer work and your own work
- experience of exploring a range and variety of photographic techniques and processes.
- the ability to respond to an issue, theme, concept or idea or work to a brief in photography
- appreciation of viewpoint, composition, depth of field and movement; time-based, through such techniques as sequence or 'frozen moment'
- the appropriate use of the camera, film, lenses, filters and lighting for work in their chosen area of photography
- An understanding of techniques related to the printing of photographic images, presentation and layout.

Further Study/Employment Prospects

This course lays an appropriate foundation for further study of Photography or related subjects in Higher Education such as Media Studies, Film Studies, Advertisement & Television and Graphic Design. In addition, it is suitable for the diverse range of candidates who wish to develop their interest in and enjoyment of photography, fostering its value in lifelong learning.
