What can this financial service provider do for you in the future?

If your personal situation changes, always return to a financial service provider. Due to these changes, the insurance may no longer suit your situation. For example, because your family situation or income changes. Then you may pay too much or run more risk than you want.

You can always contact a financial service provider for an orientation meeting. Is there an important change in your insurance? The financial service provider or provider will then contact you without you paying for it.

Does this financial service provider also offer maintenance services?

You pay an amount for maintenance services via a fixed rate or an hourly rate.

For more information about other services in the future, visit the website of your financial service provider.

¹ With maintenance services we mean that, a financial service provider can monitor with you whether there are changes that require an adjustment to your insurance.
